

But presidential papers secret

Nixon to name new prober

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said Friday night he would have a new special Watergate prosecutor appointed next week, but declared all presidential documents would be kept secret and foresaw no chance that Archibald Cox's successor would sue to get them.

Nixon said the new prosecutor, to be named by acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork, would "have independence (and) total cooperation from the executive branch."

But no sooner had his free-swinging, 38-minute White House news conference ended than congress-sional Democrats served notice that nothing but a special prosecutor legally independent of the executive branch would be acceptable.

"The President proposed to appoint a special prosecutor just to be his own boy, subject to being fired," said Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., a member of the House Judiciary Committee. A few Republicans also expressed disapproval of Nixon's plan, although most GOP legislators appeared relieved at his decision.

The President also said he had no intention of resigning. As for his emotional state after a severe week of crisis at home and abroad, Nixon smiled and said: "The tougher it gets, the cooler I get."

He attributed the easing of this week's Middle East crisis partly to his coolness under fire and an exchange of "very firm" messages with Soviet Communist Chairman Leonid Brezhnev.

"Even this week, when many thought the President was shell-shocked and unable to act, the President acted decisively," he said.

Nixon flew immediately afterward to Camp David for the weekend, joining the rest of his family there.

The President expressed confidence his decision on a special prosecutor to succeed Cox, whom he fired Saturday night, would be "satisfactory" to Congress.

But initial reaction from Capitol Hill suggested Democrats were determined to press legislation to create a new special prosecutor's office responsible to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica rather than to the Justice Department.

He acknowledged that the public's confidence in his leadership might have been shaken, but he blamed much of the recent turmoil on night after night of "frantic, hysterical reporting" on the television networks.

Nixon said the difference between the nation's current domestic troubles and those of the past was "the electronic media," which he said had produced "outrageous, vicious" and distorted reporting of the likes he had not seen in 27 years in public life.

Regarding talk of his resignation or impeachment, Nixon said: "I intend to carry out to the best of my ability the responsibilities I was elected to carry out."

Nixon announced his plans to appoint a successor to Cox only a few hours after a majority of the Senate introduced legislation authorizing

Nixon relaxes troop alert

Middle East peace hopes 'bright'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon relaxed the worldwide alert of 2.3 million U.S. servicemen and nuclear bombers Friday and declared "the outlook for permanent peace in the Mideast is the best in 20 years."

Nixon told a nationally televised news conference he had ordered American forces put on alert Thursday on the basis of "information the Soviet Union was planning to send a very substantial force into the Mideast."

He said that threat posed "a real crisis ... the most difficult crisis since the Cuban confrontation in 1962."

Nixon credited the relaxation of the international threat to peace to three factors: his own coolness under fire, his communications with Soviet Premier Leonid Brezhnev and the state of detente that existed before the Mideast war between the two nuclear superpowers.

"Even this week, when many thought the President was shellshocked and unable to act, the President acted decisively," he said, referring to the Watergate case and talk of impeachment.

Sources said the Air Defense Command went off alert status at 11 a.m.

PDT and the Strategic Air Command (SAC) bomber and missile force relaxed its strike readiness less than an hour later. Nixon said the "Norad" alert was relaxed, but sources said he actually was referring only to the U.S. portion of that command, the Continental Air Defense Command (Conrad). The portion which defends Canada had not been put on alert.

Earlier in the day, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger announced 36,000 U.S. Troops in Alaska, Central and South America were taken off alert at midnight. Thursday.

But Nixon said substantial troops of both the U.S. and the Soviet Union remained in a state of readiness despite the apparent success of diplomacy in easing the crisis.

Nixon made no mention of Brezhnev's announcement that Russian "representatives" would be sent to observe the cease-fire. He said he would send civilian observers from the U.S. at the request of the United Nations.

Because of the way the U.S.-Soviet agreement was reached, Nixon said, the outlook for peace between the Arabs and Israel "is far more hopeful" than it had been before the outbreak of war.

"The chance for not just a cease-fire ... But the outlook for a permanent peace is the best that it has been for 20 years," he said.

Nixon said the U.S.-Soviet detente helped cool off the crisis. "Without detente we might have had a major conflict in the Middle East," he said.

"With it, we avoided a major conflict."

The President reiterated what other officials had been saying for the past several days, that the U.S. did not want to invite a superpower confrontation in the Middle East by introducing the troops of either or both nations. Egypt previously had asked for a U.S.-Soviet peacekeeping force and the Soviets had indicated they might move in unilaterally.

Nixon said the initial note he received from Brezhnev — one of the acts which motivated him to call a midnight national security council meeting Thursday — was "very firm and it left very little to the imagination of what he intended."

He said he replied with a "very firm" note which "left little to the imagination about how we would react" if the Soviets insisted on carrying through their intention to send troops into the Mideast to police the cease-fire — with or without U.S. participation in such a mission.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., on Thursday called Brezhnev's note "brutal and threatening." Nixon at first said it would not serve the national interest for him to characterize it, but then thought better of it and settled on the word "firm."

U.S. intelligence sources said seven Soviet divisions of paratroopers, 50,000 men, had been alerted. They said there was still no firm evidence the Soviets had relaxed their status. Late Wednesday.

Demos attack Nixon's plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's plan to name a new special Watergate prosecutor was broadly denounced Friday night by Democratic congressmen, who charged there is no assurance the prosecutor will have a free hand.

"The people need to be assured that he (Nixon) will not use his powers to block the truth," said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

"He did not give us that assurance tonight." But Nixon fared better on his handling of the Middle East crisis this week, with no congressmen criticizing it in early comment. A number of Democrats as well as Republicans said the President's action was necessary.

MANY OF the congressional Democrats also accused the President of attacking the press during his news conference to divert attention from Watergate-related allegations against him.

Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford said he welcomed the President's decision to name another prosecutor — and suggested former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson as a possible choice.

Ford, the House Republican leader, also said, "It is my impression the President would be willing to cooperate" in releasing White House documents to the new prosecutor.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief sponsor of a resolution cosponsored by 52 senators to establish an independent special prosecutor appointed by the courts, called Nixon's plan "unbelievable."

"This new prosecutor has no charter of independence at all," Bayh said. "All he has is the President's word."

WITH JUST over 100 House members sponsoring a similar resolution, Bayh predicted Congress will authorize the independent special prosecutor with broad powers as early as two weeks from now.

Rep. John C. Culver, D-Iowa, chief sponsor of the House resolution contended the new prosecutor would have no more independence than Archibald Cox, whom the President fired from the post.

"The President's definition of independence means either accept his promised compromises or be fired," Culver said.

Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., who helped draft Culver's resolution, said: "I think it is clear the President's new special prosecutor will be handcuffed."

Reps. Bella S. Abzug and Ogden R. Reid, New York Democrats who cosponsored resolutions to impeach the President, issued new calls for his ouster on the basis of his prosecutor plan.

"OBVIOUSLY Mr. Nixon is still not prepared to allow the full, unencumbered investigation that the American people demand," said Ms. Abzug. "The impeachment procedure should continue."

Said Reid: "The President's refusal to accept

Israeli troops capture Suez City

SUEZ, Egypt (AP) — Israeli forces have occupied almost all of Suez City, the strategic gate to the south end of the Suez Canal, Israeli officers said Friday.

Gunfire exploded along the canal as cut-off Egyptian forces on the opposite end of the canal to the east appeared to be shelling their own city in a desperate attempt to drive out the Israeli occupiers, despite the U.N. cease-fire.

Newsman could see or hear no signs of Israeli fire being directed at the town. The Israelis say they have 20,000 men in Egypt's 3rd Army trapped on the east bank, unable to cross to the west side of the canal because of the Israeli occupation of the west bank.

Israeli officers said the city's main oil refinery was destroyed.

"Our forces have been inside the town since before the first cease-fire," said an Israeli lieutenant colonel who identified himself only as a commander in the Suez City sector.

On Thursday, AP correspondent Ronald Thomson said Israeli tanks had sowed in the town and had their guns trained on its buildings.

"The city has been almost completely occupied except for a few pockets of resistance — maybe a few hundred Egyptian soldiers in scattered units that can no longer be called a force," said the Israeli officer who was interviewed Friday.

The colonel was speaking from the Suez perimeter road on the southwest edge of Suez, near city houses and apartments that appeared empty.

From a road junction about one mile north, Israeli troops, halftracks and armor were moving in and out of the city from the west, with no sign of resistance.

The lieutenant colonel declined to disclose how many men the Israelis had inside Suez.

"There was resistance when we moved into the city," he said. "Now only a few minor pockets are holding out — probably remnants of the 3rd Army, but they can no longer be called an army."

"Now the prisoners are coming out. We have had about 400 surrender so far and they are still coming, with white flags."

On the road north of Suez parallel to the canal, Israeli troops were rounding up so many prisoners that the Israelis had trouble finding enough trucks to take them away.

The Israeli lieutenant colonel said the Egyptians' three bridges across the canal had been knocked out.

"The Egyptians on the east bank have lost all their communications," he said. "As you can see, they are firing, but we are not returning firing in this sector. They started fighting about 7:30 this morning."

That time was just over 48 hours after the second U.N. Security Council cease-fire deadline.

The civilian population of Suez City, the lieutenant colonel said, was "very small" — only workers keeping the city installations running.

He said Suez had been largely abandoned since 1970. He did not say what had become of the remaining civilian population when Israeli forces moved in.

No U.N. cease-fire observers were in the area, Israeli officers said.

This correspondent heard firing continue irregularly for more than four hours. At one roadside post where Egyptian prisoners were assembling, a shell hissed in a low trajectory and burst about 60 yards away.

The Egyptians marooned on the Sinai Desert side of the waterway appeared to be trying to clear the Israelis from the canal bank.

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli spokesman said that all fronts were reported quiet by nightfall.

But Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed H. el-Zayyat complained that they had declined Egypt's request that they go to the cease-fire area Friday night, and said "we are expecting a very heavy bombardment" before their arrival there Saturday morning.

Meeting of the 15-nation council held at Egypt's urgent request.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim told the council the first elements of the new U.N. Emergency Force had reached Egypt from Cyprus with orders to move forward "with the maximum possible speed."

Near East being insured peace, security and the inviolability of their borders.

Star's son faces sex charge

Combined News Services

Fourteen men have been charged with sex offenses in connection with allegedly pornographic films involving young children, authorities said Friday.

Among the 14, they said, were Christopher Paul Lewis, 29, a Beverly Hills film producer and the son of actress Loretta Young; and William Byars, 37, of Hollywood, identified by authorities as an heir to the Humble Oil Co. fortune.

Authorities said the defendants were named in nine separate secret indictments handed down Thursday but held for release until Friday.

"This whole thing involves the procurement of young boys for the making of pornographic movies and still photographs," said Deputy Dist. Atty. James Grodin, who presented the case to the grand jury. He said the children in the films ranged in age from 6 to 17.

Lewis is charged with six counts of sex perversion and Byars with four. Lewis was arraigned Friday before Superior Court Judge James G. Kolts. Byars is believed to be in Europe, making a film.

Also named in the indictment were Walter Gene Morton, 28, of 10901 Blix St., North Hollywood. Morton is a former YMCA counselor currently involved with youth programs in the South Bay area.

A fourth defendant, Richard George, 36, of 2315 Gates Ave., Redondo Beach, also is charged with multiple sex perversion acts. George is a Boy Scout leader who works as a systems analyst at Warner Brothers Studio.

The indictment additionally listed Francisco Jose de Soto, 43, a recently-resigned teacher at Notre Dame High School in Sherman Oaks.

Also named were Gregorio Orozco Jr., 26, of Hollywood; James Braskins, of Riverside; John F. Rafterly, 58, of North Hollywood; Daniel Marvin Yert, 29, of Hollywood; Frank Hershey, 66, of Manhattan Beach; and George Easter, 30, of Playa del Rey.

Investigators said the case came to light after an informant turned over a pornographic "chicken" film — motion pictures involving young boys — last Aug. 3. The youths were shown performing homosexual acts.

Seized in the course of the three-month investigation were numerous sex magazines as well as 2,000 8-mm. films replete with scenes of masturbation, oral sex and sodomy.

Grodin said the films sold for $50 each and the magazines for $5 and $10. Many of the alleged hardcore films were produced by Lyric Film Productions, reportedly owned by Byars.

A Houston, Tex., photographer, William Johnson worked for Byars and also was named in the indictment.

Grodin was quick to say there has been no link discovered between the alleged Los Angeles crimes and the mass homosexual murders in Houston, uncovered Aug. 8. He said Johnson and Byars may have transported some of their "actors" from the Houston area to California for the films.

One movie clip allegedly showed nude children frolicking on a beach believed to be in Corpus Christi, Tex.

Arrested and charged with similar offenses on Sept. 1 stemming from those films were Guy Straight, 53, of Studio City, and Melvin C. Reynolds, 38, of Cudahy. Both were named in the indictments.

Honored

Former Rep. Emanuel Celler, who served as a Democrat from Brooklyn for 50 years, was honored by his borough Friday in ceremonies officially renaming the federal building there for him. Celler, 85, defeated by Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman in a primary election last year, said he hoped statutes would preserve the law "and the knowledge that no man, no man is above it."

Osmonds

Two of the Osmond Brothers pop group, who were mobbed by fans at London Airport a few days ago, walked unnoticed through the gates of Buckingham Palace Friday. Jay and Alan Osmond, wearing T-shirts, blue jeans and leather jackets, waited unnoticed in a line of tourists who are allowed to go through the main gates two at a time and sign a visitor's book. Donny, the star of the group from Salt Lake City, was not there.

Sextuplets

Two of the Denver Stanek sextuplets will go home today six weeks after birth and doctors said Friday only one of the babies still show signs of a lung disease that killed their sister.

"As things stand now, John and Steven will be released," said Dr. James Strain.

Three remaining children — Jeffrey, Nathan and Catherine — will join their brothers at home after they gain a little more weight, said Strain.

Super glide

A 30-year-old electrical engineer from Plymouth, Mich., astonished residents Friday by making a 4,400-yard gliding descent from the summit of Mont Blanc. Rudy Kishazy jumped off the top of Europe's highest peak holding on to a metal-tubed kite structure. Thirty minutes and 15 miles later, Kishazy landed near the village of Servoz. A local news agency termed the Hungarian-born American's feat "a world record that can never be beaten, even in the Himalayas."

Banned

The East German interior ministry has banned Julius Cardinal Doepfner, Roman Catholic archbishop of Munich, from attending the 200th anniversary on Nov. 1 of East Berlin's St. Hedwig's Cathedral, a West Berlin church spokesman announced Friday. The spokesman said the ministry barred the archbishop on the grounds he had an "aggressive attitude" toward East Germany.

Chess win

Bent Larsen of Denmark defeated national master Renato Naranja of the Philippines Friday night to take the temporary lead in the eighth round of the $10,000 First Philippine International Chess Tournament. The 39-year-old Danish grandmaster took the lead position as Lubomir Kavalek of the U.S. with whom Larsen had shared top place after the seventh round, adjourned his match with international master Eugene Torre of the Philippines. Larsen, the top favorite among 16 entries in the three-week tournament, beat Naranja in the 18th move.

ARAB TERRORIST VICTIM BURIED

John C. Maxwell was buried Friday, one week after he was killed by a burst of gunfire during a five-man commando raid on a Bank of America branch in Beirut. Maxwell, 52, was one of more than three dozen hostages held by Arab terrorists for 25 hours in the bank building. He was killed moments before Lebanese soldiers and police stormed the building in a hail of gunfire.

One policeman was killed and six others wounded in the raid. Five bank employees and five passers-by also were wounded in the rescue which was punctuated by machine gun and hand grenade blasts. Thirty-nine hostages were rescued. Two of Maxwell's Arab captors were killed and two others were critically wounded. The fifth was captured unharmed. Authorities said all were members of the Marxist Lebanese Socialist Revolutionary Movement.

Maxwell was the senior sales representative in the Middle East for Douglas Aircraft Corp. He had worked at the firm's Long Beach office before leaving for Beirut a month ago.

56% oil price hike

Combined News Services

CARACAS — Venezuela Friday hiked its oil prices 56 per cent, raising the average price to $7.24 per barrel as of Nov. 1. The increase is expected to hit the U.S. the hardest, the leading buyer of Venezuelan crude. The hike, the tenth announced this year by the South American oil giant, came 10 days after Persian Gulf producers announced a 70 per cent increase in their prices and was about 35 cents more than the gulf states' $2 increase. Mines Minister Hugo Perez La Salvia said that with the increase, Venezuelan state oil revenue is now $3.99 per barrel, a 150 per cent hike of the level Jan. 1.

Oil sharing plan

PARIS — Representatives of leading non-Communist oil-consuming nations agreed Friday to accelerate work on a plan for mutual sharing of oil supplies, but said there was no need for such sharing now, despite the Middle East crisis.

The decision came after a two-day meeting of the oil committee of the 24-nation Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

Skylab 3 set to go

CAPE CANAVERAL — The space agency Friday confirmed Nov. 10 as the launch date for Skylab 3 and said the mission's three astronauts might stay in orbit a record 85 days. The announcement came after experts determined there was no structural damage to two first-stage fuel tanks which had buckled slightly in a fueling mishap. They were popped back into place by gas pressure on Thursday. That avoided a two-to-four-week launch delay which would have been required if the tanks or the first stage of the Saturn 1B rocket had had to be replaced.

Strike averted

DETROIT — The Ford Motor Co. Friday agreed to a new contract with the United Auto Workers that averted a second industry-crippling strike and gave foundry workers full retirement after 24 years on the job. Despite the agreement, about 7,700 workers walked off the job at seven Ford plants when the strike deadline was reached. Ford said it hoped the later shifts would report. UAW President Leonard Woodcock emerged from a 21-hour bargaining session to announce the settlement.

X-rays held threat

WASHINGTON — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader asked a federal court Friday to bar airport X-ray machines used to search passenger carry-on luggage. He claimed the devices pose a radiation threat to millions of travelers. In a suit filed against Federal Aviation Administrator Alexander Butterfield, Nader and the Aviation Consumers Action Project told the U.S. District Court the FAA has only voluntary guidelines for the X-ray machines.

The airlines have installed about 175 X-ray machines at major airports as part of the antihijacking security program. The X-ray machines are used to spot weapons or explosives which may be carried by a potential hijacker. But Nader said the machines "are less effective in detecting weapons than physical searches."

Veil of secrecy

BUENOS AIRES — A cloak of secrecy was thrown around the kidnaping of an American business executive Friday. Neither police nor the Amoco Oil Company's Argentine subsidiary, which the kidnaped executive headed, would comment on ransom negotiations. David Wilkie, president of the Amoco subsidiary, was kidnaped Tuesday en route to work. Police sources said a $1 million ransom demand was received. Wilkie was the ninth foreign businessman kidnaped this year.

'Rice road' battle

SAIGON — Communist troops, apparently attempting to cut the "rice road" from the Mekong Delta to the South Vietnamese capital during harvest time, fought a bloody pitched battle with government soldiers, the Saigon command reported Friday.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, the Saigon spokesman, listed 40 Communists and 32 soldiers of the 7th Infantry Division killed in the battle. Another 43 soldiers were wounded and five were missing from the battalion-size government unit.

Prime rate cut

NEW YORK — A handful of large commercial banks cut the interest rate for prime business loans to large firms from 9 3/4 to 9 1/2 per cent Friday. The decreases are effective Monday for the most part. First National City Bank of New York, one of the country's largest, kicked off the cut. It was the second quarter point slash the rate for Citibank in successive weeks. Banks following Citibank's lead included Manufacturers Bank of Los Angeles, Commerce Bank of Kansas City and First National Bank of Oregon.

Big trade surplus

WASHINGTON — The U.S. recorded its biggest monthly trade surplus in more than eight years in September in what was a major payoff from the two devaluations of the dollar, the Commerce Department reported Friday. Trade officials admitted surprise at the size of the September surplus $873 million, and especially a decline in imports during the month of 7.4 per cent. Exports were up by 7.4 per cent, totaling $6.4 billion during the month. Imports totaled $5.5 billion.

Lawfully wed?

I was divorced and remarried in Mexico. Since the marriage wasn't performed in the United States, will I have any problems collecting my husband's Social Security if he dies before I do? C.M., Downey.

You may have a problem if the Social Security Administration questions your marriage certificate, which you must present to qualify for your husband's benefits. If you're lucky, the certificate may slip through without comment. If your marriage was arranged by a Mexican marriage broker, it probably has no legal status, even in Mexico. To be considered legal in the United States, a marriage must have full legal standing in the country where it was performed.

A fully legal Mexican marriage, one that is performed by a judge of the Civil Registry and recorded in a government office, generally is more complicated to obtain for U.S. citizens than one in this country. If your marriage certificate is questioned, the Social Security Administration also may find out about your Mexican divorce and that probably will cause you more problems than the marriage certificate. Mexican divorces generally are not legal in California for residents of this state. If your Mexican divorce is invalid, the legality of your second marriage is on especially shaky grounds. For specific information on your case, you should contact your local Social Security office now. You also may need to hire an attorney for competent advice and help.

Retake

I passed my driver's test in June, and I've been waiting since then to get my permanent driver's license. I've gone through three temporary certificates. Because I'm a diabetic, my doctor must send the California Department of Motor Vehicles a medical report every six months. This information has been submitted, but I still don't have my license. Can ACTION LINE help? B.K., Downey.

By now, you have been contacted by a spokesman for the DMV headquarters in Sacramento who has explained what happened to your driver's license.

When you originally applied for your license, your photograph didn't develop properly. A retake card was supposed to be sent to you in August, but because of a clerical error, it was never mailed. The card has now been sent to you. Take it to your local DMV office where your photograph will be retaken. Your license then will be processed as quickly as possible.

Donor

How can I donate my organs for transplant operations? B.B., Long Beach.

You can obtain a universal organ donor card from the Kidney Foundation of Southern California, 1281 Westwood Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90024. Complete the card indicating which organs you want to donate, and carry it with you. State and federal legislation has designated these cards as legal documents, but physicians also require the consent of the next of kin before they will remove an organ. For this reason, you should make sure your family knows your wishes. The Medic Alert Foundation, 1000 N. Palm St., Turlock, Calif. 95380, maintains a registry of persons wanting to donate their organs. Donors receive a Medic Alert emblem on which is engraved the person's membership number, the words "organ donor" and the telephone number of the central file office in Turlock. Physicians can then telephone the central file for information about the donor's wishes and his next of kin. The Medic Alert emblem, which is available on a bracelet or a necklace, costs between $7 and $28, depending upon the kind of metal desired.

Panel feels Yorty gave oil firm deal

Occidental Petroleum Corp. may have been given preferential treatment by former Mayor Sam Yorty's administration in the firm's efforts to win approval to drill for oil at Pacific Palisades, according to a City Council committee report released Friday.

The 45-page report of the City Council's Governmental Efficiency Committee contains testimony indicating that Yorty's office was opposed to either a half-mile or a quarter-mile drilling ban in the area. In 1971 the City Planning Department staff was considering an ordinance to ban drilling within a half-mile of the coast.

The report said that Keli Oyeda, a planning official who was working

Jury selection

Family-torture trial opens

A former minister, facing charges stemming from the kidnapping-torture ordeal of his former wife and four children in Long Beach, Friday served as his own attorney in selection of the jurors who will try him.

The defendant, Douglas Arnold Matheson, 48, of 1410 W. 11th St., Long Beach, and Dep. Dist. Atty. George L. Pugsley each delivered brief opening statements to the jury of 11 men and one woman which was empaneled within four hours.

The jury was sworn in before Superior Judge D. Sterry Fagan, who accepted questions from both Matheson and the prosecutor, then conducted the examination of prospective jurors from the bench.

Fagan recessed the trial until 9:30 a.m. Monday, when the prosecution will begin to present evidence in the case. Matheson's petition to represent himself, granted last August, will be subject to day-by-day review of the judge.

The defendant, a minister of the Bible Emanuel Church in Los Angeles from 1956 to 1962, is charged with eight felony counts in connection with the five-day ordeal of his former wife and children aboard an unfinished, 47-foot houseboat in Long Beach Harbor last March.

Among major witnesses in the trial will be the ex-wife, Mary Helen Matheson, 48, and four children, ranging in age from 11 to 19, who allegedly were kidnapped from their Alhambra home and taken to the boat where they were subjected to ritual beatings, sermons on their sinfulness and a diet of garbage from the docks.

As defense witnesses, Matheson has subpoenaed his oldest son, Roy Douglas Matheson, 21, who lived aboard the houseboat, and ex-Marine Larry Neil Miller, 30.

The younger Matheson faces five kidnapping charges. He was arrested with his father during a police raid on the boat after officers said one of the captive children escaped.

Miller was arrested two days later in Scottsdale, Ariz. He is charged with nine felony counts in connection with incidents aboard the houseboat.

POLICE alleged that Miller met Matheson in prison, while the former minister was serving a sentence for a previous kidnapping of his former wife.

Both the younger Matheson and Miller are scheduled for trial Nov. 15 before Superior Judge Charles C. Stratton. Those two defendants were denied petitions to act as their own attorneys.

Roy Matheson is represented by attorney Philip M. Madden and awaits trial under $20,000 bail, while Miller, under $25,000 bail, is represented by Arthur Alexander. Bail for the elder Matheson is $50,000.

Teen-age suspect held in L.A. Airport shootings

A teenager, sought for six weeks as a suspect in the International Airport shooting which left a Rolling Hills auto dealer partially paralyzed, was being held by Los Angeles police Friday following his arrest in Northern California.

Fred Jones, 17, of Los Angeles, was booked by Venice Division detectives into juvenile hall on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and robbery, said investigators. Jones' bail was set at $100,000.

The suspect was arrested Wednesday by police in Woodland, 18 miles southeast of Sacramento, in connection with at least 10 burglaries and holdups in the Sacramento Valley area, said officers.

Informed of his arrest, two Los Angeles detectives went to Woodland and returned with Jones late Thursday night, police reported.

Jones became the second of three suspects to be arrested in connection with the shooting last Sept. 10 of 35-year-old Gerald Webber and his son Cory, 10, of 10 Cincin Road.

The wealthy auto dealer and his son were accosted by three men while walking through a parking garage at the airport. They were forced to kneel while Webber turned over his wallet, then both were shot.

Webber's son was wounded in the chest but later recovered. The auto dealer, who had been walking to his car after returning from a Hawaiian vacation, was shot twice. One of the bullets severed his spine, paralyzing his legs.

2 bikes stolen

Two bicycles valued at $200 were stolen from the garage of James Williams Hughes, 235 Coronado Ave.

Another man who happened upon the robbery scene, 45-year-old William Kinsel of Glendale, was stopped, robbed and then beaten over the head with a nightstick by a robber who was disappointed by the contents of Kinsel's wallet.

Moments after the robbers had fled, an airport security guard stopped a car, speeding without headlights, near the airport security administration office.

The driver of that car, identified by police as Marion Lee Battiste, 19, of Los Angeles, was arrested as a suspect in the crime after officers said they found a shotgun and a machete in his car.

Still sought in the case, Venice detectives said, is a third Los Angeles teenager, 17-year-old Jai Myram Barksdale.

Watching the President

Sen. Sam Ervin, Senate Watergate committee chairman, is shown watching President Nixon on TV Friday during the President's news conference. Ervin said Congress would likely go ahead with plans for legislation to provide for a special Watergate prosecutor.

Nixon calls his friend Rebozo 'totally honest'

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Charles G. Rebozo, the Florida financier who is under investigation by the Justice Department in an alleged stock fraud case, was described Friday by President Nixon, his close friend, as "a totally honest man."

Rebozo, he said, had not acted improperly in holding for three years and then returning a $100,000

"political contribution." The President also dismissed reports that his friend had administered a $1 million trust fund in Nixon's behalf.

RESPONDING to questions at a news conference, Nixon said he based his opinion of Rebozo's honesty on his belief that the banker had "turned back in exactly the same form" $100,000 that Rebozo received in 1969 and 1970 from Howard Hughes.

The President accused the American Broadcasting Company of carrying a report earlier this week on the alleged trust fund, supposedly made up of illegal corporate political contributions, with the knowledge that "it was untrue."

Nixon sees Rebozo frequently on his trips to his home in Key Biscayne, Fla., and Rebozo purchased earlier this year an expensive home in suburban Maryland that he rents at an undisclosed "special rate" to the President's younger daughter, Julie Nixon Eisenhower, and her husband, David.

The President bristled Friday when asked whether the White House's assertions that Nixon had had no knowledge of the contribution until after last November's presidential election was "credible."

"It's obviously not credible to you," Nixon shot back at the inquiring newsmen. "And I suppose that it would sound incredible to many people who did not know how I operate."

BUT HE argued that Rebozo had shown "very good judgment" in keeping the Hughes Money in a safe deposit box for some three years, then returning it to the donor after one of his properties, the Hughes Tool Company, had become embroiled in "an internal fight of massive proportions."

He had not known of the money's existence, he said, because of a standing policy at the White House that he not be told of contributions to his re-election campaign until after it was over, when he "would send notes of appreciation to those that contributed."

There have been rumors that the cash eventually returned to Hughes, who is currently residing in London, did not bear the same serial numbers as had the bills that Rebozo accepted in two $50,000 payments.

If true, that would contradict Nixon's assertion Friday that the money had lain untouched and then returned "intact" when Rebozo decided that to accept the contribution would be politically embarrassing.

IT HAD been unpleasant, the President recalled, to see television reports on Monday alleging that Rebozo had compiled and administered a "trust fund" of more than $1 million in his behalf through the Key Biscayne National Bank, which Rebozo heads.

"Those are things which, of course, do tend to get under the skin of the man who holds this office," said Nixon.

He added to the category of irritating misinformation earlier reports that "a million dollars in campaign funds went into my San Clemente property," and he said he was angered that the stories had persisted "even after we have a complete audit" of the financial transactions surrounding

But blast at media reveals feelings

Nixon performance 'masterful'

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON — Not since Richard Nixon's "last press conference" almost 11 years ago in California, when he was defeated by Pat Brown for the governorship of California and thought his political career was over, was there such interest in his personal reaction to adversity as there was Friday night in his meeting with the reporters in the White House.

Few presidents in the history of the republic faced a more difficult assignment, under more trying circumstances, and almost all the way through, he was in complete command of himself and of the wide range of complicated and even dangerous political problems at home and abroad.

He looked healthy and vigorous. Considering what he had been through in his crises with the Soviets on the Middle East and the courts and the Congress at home, and the disgrace of his vice president, and the challenges of Richardson. Cox, and Ruckelshaus, he was remarkably calm and lucid.

He was answering the main question on everybody's mind: How was he holding up under the pressure? Almost all the way through, he was not only holding up very well, but was defending his positions on the courts, Congress, and the Middle East with remarkable serenity and skill.

Then, suddenly, and almost precisely as he had done in that famous farewell news conference in Los Angeles 11 years ago, all the controlled rage of this most private and controlled man burst out against the television networks.

It was an unfortunate and even silly diversion from his masterful explanation of his Watergate and Middle East problems — he was doing so well — but even early in the news conference, he kept making provocative remarks about the "vicious," "frantic" and "hysterical" reporting of the networks.

the purchase of his California estate.

On Monday, ABC news reported that investigators working for Archibald Cox, the former special Watergate prosecutor, had uncovered allegations, the week before Nixon discharged Cox, of the existence of the trust fund.

He didn't stop at that. He accused the networks of reporting dishonorable charges against him which they knew to be untrue, and unfortunately, this changed the really important questions from the Middle East and the dismissals of Cox and Ruckelshaus and the resignation of former

ANALYSIS N.Y. TIMES SERVICE

Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson to the old question of the government versus the reporters.

EVEN THEN, it might have been possible to get back to the main questions, but he had been so provocative and then vicious in his criticism of the networks that he was asked why he was so angry about them, and then he made the old mistake that has hounded him throughout his political career.

"Don't get the impression," he said, "that you arouse my anger. You see, one can only be angry with those he respects."

It was about the most vicious remark any American president has made about his critics. Later on, he tried to soften it by saying it was not the reporters but the network commentators he was talking about, but he had revealed something which the rest of his remarkably calm and cogent performance had concealed. He was still boiling mad and emotional underneath the calm, and this startled his audience and raised again the central question of his judgment and capacity to govern.

THE CENTRAL issue here now is not the Middle East, which the President handled effectively if a little too dramatically, or even the Watergate scandals, but President Nixon himself, his judgment, his sudden switches from one position to another, his opposition to independent prosecutors followed by his defense of independent prosecutors, his announcements of speeches one day and his cancellation of them the next, his proclamations of "partnerships" with the Soviet Union one week, and his worldwide alert of American forces to oppose the Soviets the next.

Also, he took the line that, after the latest crisis in the Middle East, there was not a better chance to get a compromise or even a better settlement there than at any time in the last generation. But this is not really the judgment of his principal advisers in Washington.

THEY ARE seriously alarmed by the implications and consequences of this latest war between the Arabs and the Israelis. The Soviet Union pulled back at the end, but despite its promises to avoid dangers wars in the Nixon-Brezhnev agreement in Washington last year, they continued at the outbreak of the latest Middle East war, urged the other Arab states to join in destroying Israel, and even threatened to intervene with their own forces.

The solemn analysis of the Pentagon and the State Department now is that the Soviet Union compromised in the end to save the Egyptian army from destruction, but that it is determined to keep on trading arms to the Arabs for oil, and that the pressure on Israel will continue until the Arabs regain the territory they lost in the 1967 war.

conference. He argued that this worldwide alert had produced a cease-fire, which may be true, and that there was now the best chance in a generation to produce a lasting peace in the Middle East, which may be true but is more hopeful than any of his advisers believe.

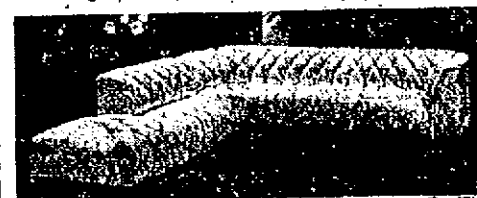

Meanwhile, by his emotional outburst against the networks, Nixon has not removed the doubts about his judgment, but increased them. And the irony of it is that it was all so unnecessary, for his performance in the press conference most of the way was almost flawless, until he lost his temper and revived the very doubts about his judgment he was trying to remove.

U.S. allies' inaction criticized

Nixon irked by 'lack of cooperation'

WASHINGTON (AP) — With some help from President Nixon, the administration strongly criticized American allies Friday for failing to support American policies and actions in the Middle East crisis. The President at his news conference lined up with the State Department in declaring that "our European friends hadn't been as cooperative as they might have been in attempting to help us work out the Middle East settlement."

Nixon noted that while the U.S. obtains only about 10 per cent of its oil from the area, Europe gets 80 per cent of its oil from there. Europe, he said, "would have frozen to death this winter unless there had been a settlement." And Japan, he said, "of course is in that same position."

EARLIER, State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey told newsmen that only one North Atlantic Treaty Organization ally provided the kind of backing Washington felt was necessary. Portugal reportedly was the sole exception.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Bernd Von Staden, the West German ambassador, discussed the complaint Friday evening, just before Nixon went on the air.

The diplomats afterwards issued a brief statement couched in diplomatic generalities and stressing that the appointment was requested last Monday and, therefore, should not be connected to the more recent friction between Washington and the Western European capitals.

"IT WAS a general survey of questions of the alliance ... it was conducted in a friendly atmosphere and both sides agreed that it was useful," Von Staden's statement said.

A British Embassy spokesman, commenting on McCloskey's criticism, appeared to be surprised that the State Department spokesman did not exclude Britain from those allies he censured.

Britain, the embassy official said, was never asked to permit American airplanes carrying supplies to Israel to land in Britain for refueling or other purposes. "It would be a mistake to assume that we would have refused such a request," the diplomat said.

Discussing the alert ordered by Nixon, he said that according to "all evidence available" to the embassy, the British assessment of Soviet moves and plans in the Middle East was "consistent with the U.S. interpretation."

"WE GREATLY welcome what the United States has done to achieve the cease-fire and the other moves by the United States to enforce it," the diplomat said.

Meanwhile, diplomatic sources disclosed that Donald Rumsfeld, the U.S. ambassador to NATO, used what one high-ranking diplomatic observer described as "shocking language" in a hushed-up meeting of the permanent representatives to the defense organization on Oct. 16 requesting "loyal support" of the allied nations to the U.S. resupply effort to Israel. McCloskey said American support of Israel in the Middle East conflict was motivated by a desire to establish a durable peace between the Arabs and Israel.

"That is as much in the vital interests of Western Europe and other NATO allies as it is in our interests and the world at large," McCloskey said.

"We were struck," McCloskey said, "by a number of our allies going to some lengths to in effect separate publicly from us" in the support of Israel.

Domino effect of grain deal

Cost of almost all food hiked

By DON McLEOD
WASHINGTON 10 —
The real loser in the great Russian grain sales of 1972 was the American consumer, who is paying drastically higher prices for just about everything he eats.

The depletion of vital commodity stores, a transportation crisis and inflation have combined to slam the U.S. breadwinner with a blow to the breadbasket.

Food prices in the first half of this year rose an average of 10 per cent above the same period of 1971. In the last in a series, the impact of those exports is explored.

1972, before the grain trading began.

Projections from government experts are that the annual rate of increase for all of 1973 will reach 18 to 22 per cent. A rise of 22 per cent would be an all-time high.

And it can't be written off to general inflation. For the fiscal year which ended June 30, farm products, processed foods and feeds accounted for two-thirds of the total increase in the wholesale price index.

THE IMPACT of the grain shortage goes far beyond the cost of flour and bread. Everything in the grain-feed chain went up as the basic grains rose.

Because feed costs more, all kinds of meat cost more. So do milk, butter and cheese. Hides have gone up sharply and so have new shoes for the children.

So government freezes and housewife boycotts were aimed at the wrong targets. They hit producers who couldn't sell their products for enough money to pay for their feed. Chickens were drowned and pregnant hogs slaughtered, creating future shortages which will drive prices still higher.

The people holding all that valuable grain, however, didn't have to worry if the U.S. government couldn't afford it, foreign buyers could, subsidized by Uncle Sam and in some cases by their own governments.

IN AN EFFORT to relieve the strain on food prices, the government's Commodity Credit Corp. dumped its stores on the market.

There weren't enough freight cars to carry the grain, let alone the rest of the country's business. The congestion left empty cars unable to get to where they were needed.

Farmers needing seed and fertilizer to get in this year's crop couldn't get it. Crops were late getting planted all across the country. At summer's end, the Agriculture Department said crops this year will be short of early predictions.

Railroad freight rates went up 10 per cent, with a corresponding rise in world shipping rates, boosting the price of everything that moved, even such far removed items as furniture and new housing, for want of wood.

The large grain companies, which own their own freight cars and river barges and had first call on the railroads, monopolized the available facilities.

FARMERS and small elevators unable to deliver contracted grain on time were charged late penalties by the same big companies.

One reason given for turning to wide-open exports was to help the farmers, and some prospered from the higher prices their crops commanded.

come from 1972 was 10 per cent above 1971, and the rise this year over last is expected to be even greater. Realized gross farm income in the January-June period of 1973 rose to about $81 billion, up $14 billion over the same period of 1972.

But at the same time farmer expenses rose to $27 billion, up $3 billion. So the 20.9 per cent increase in income was just about matched by a 18.6 per cent hike in costs.

Prosperity was not even spread evenly in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and other early-harvest states sold their 1972 crops before news of the Soviet sales leaked out. Some sold for $1.30 or less wheat that would be worth over $2 before the summer was over.

BY CONSERVATIVE estimate, 13 to 17 per cent of the crop was sold too early for the growers to realize a profit from the Soviet sales.

Farmers in the northern tier of the wheat belt, where crops came to harvest later, also harvested the profits. For them it was a bonanza.

This year, some farmers held their wheat until it was worth $3 a bushel, only to see it go to $5 in August.

Despite better times for some farmers, it was the big grain traders who made the big money.

Six top grain companies sold the $12 billion worth of American grain to the Soviet Union last year, including 440 million bushels of wheat on which government subsidies ran as high as 47 cents a bushel.

AN OFFICIAL of Continental Grain Co., which handled the largest Russian order, has testified that the firm's profits on these sales were between $15 million and $17 million, which he described as "smaller than normal."

Cargill Inc. produced figures purporting to show that it actually lost 9 cents a bushel on the 2.5 million tons it sold the Russians.

But whether profits came from subsidies or the Soviet Union or other sales concluded in the protein shortage that followed, examination of 1972 financial records shows the grain companies prospered from the grain drain.

Cook Industries Inc., which sold 900,000 tons of wheat and a million of soybeans to Russia, is a public company which, according to Standard and Poors, did almost $164 million sales last year, up from $128 million in 1971.

FIGURES for other companies in the grain trading and processing business show similar rises, up to the 63.3 per cent hike in pre-tax income for Staley Manufacturing Co., described as "a leading producer of corn and soybean-based products."

The big traders came out ahead on more than their export business with Russian and other foreign customers.

Most of the big grain firms also are brokers on the major commodity exchanges. Knowing in advance about the Russian sales, they had a jump on the market.

Reagan Prop. 1 'It's a lie,' other side says data incomplete, Post contends

Tax initiative foes sued for false ads

Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — From 1968 until this past fiscal year, Californians' contributions to the operation of state government have been exactly what Gov. Reagan says it should be, Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said Friday.

In a statement prepared for delivery to the Assembly Education Committee in Los Angeles, Post pointed out that state governmental expenditures from 1968 until his past June 30 averaged 7 per cent of Californians' total personal income.

THE FIGURES were provided by the governor's office, he said.

The governor's controversial tax limitation proposal, which will appear on a statewide ballot Nov. 6, proposes to reduce the percentage of income taken by the state by one-tenth of one per cent each year, until 7 per cent is reached.

"In 1972-73," Post said, "state expenditures were 7.1 per cent of personal income, and the ratio jumped to 8.3 per cent during the current fiscal year because the governor and the legislature approved new rebates to local government and subventions to school districts during the 1972 and 1973 sessions."

The massive tax relief programs supported vigorously by the governor last year accounts for more than half of the additional spending, the analyst said. Community college aid, state employee salary increases, increased health and welfare expenditures, and funds budgeted for a new State Capitol account for most of the rest.

IN 1968-69, Post told the committee, state expenditures represented 6.9 per cent of the total personal income. In 1969-70 the figure was 7.2 per cent, in 1970-71 7.0 per cent, and in 1971-72 6.8 per cent.

Post reiterated his contention that as much as $620 million might have to be lopped off the 1974-75 state spending plan if Prop. 1 is approved. He said that even if Reagan's disputed revenue projections are used, $156 million will have to be cut.

And in 10 years, the effect on the financing of the state will be about the same, no matter which figures are used, he said, unless major cutbacks in services are effected.

Assuming that the state's educational programs are required to bear a proportionate share of cuts if state expenditures have to be reduced, Post said, "then education expenditures would be reduced by $111.6 million in 1974-75."

"IF WE APPLY a similar assumption to higher education programs, it would be necessary to reduce such expenditures by $49 million."

The gap between estimated workload needs (expenditures plus inflation and population growth) needs and the proportionate limit on education's expenditures will grow wider each ensuing year.

Post's criticisms of the governor's tax limitation proposal have drawn angry charges of deliberate distortion from Reagan and other supporters of the initiative. There was no immediate administration comment on Post's latest assertions.

21 year term for slayer of 2 women

MARIPOSA (UPI) — John P. Bunyard, convicted of slaying two women and committing a variety of other offenses during an Easter weekend crime spree, was sentenced to a minimum of 21 years in prison Friday.

"I feel this man should have never been released from prison," said Mariposa County Superior Court Judge Dean Lauritzen in pronouncing sentence on the 27-year-old former San Francisco truck driver who has been in correctional institutions since he was 10.

Bunyard also is suspected of being the "Nob Hill rapist" in San Francisco where authorities are reportedly studying the possibility of bringing charges against him.

Gov. Reagan's tax plan campaign sued opponents for $1.5 million Friday, accusing them of using false and deceitful advertising in an effort to defeat Prop. 1.

The suit was filed in Sacramento County Superior Court by Michael K. Deaver and Californians for Lower Taxes.

Defendants are Californians Against Prop. 1, Whitaker & Baxter Campaigns Inc., and the California Teachers Association.

The suit asked the court to halt this use of advertising that claims the League of California Cities is opposed to Prop. 1 and that it would not cut taxes.

His firm is conducting an advertising and public relations campaign against Prop. 1.

Whitaker accused the Reagan campaign of using misleading advertising.

"Why do they keep saying this thing is going to grant a onetime income tax credit?" he said. "That's already been done by the Legislature. I get a little fed up with this junk once in a while."

And Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. accused both sides of distortion in their arguments for and against the measure.

against Prop. 1 has received an infusion of $180,000 in campaign funds.

But the Republican governor's supporters still are outspending the opponents by an estimated 3-1, figures disclosed by Reagan showed Friday.

A $100,000 contribution to fight Prop. 1 came from the political action arm of the California Teachers' Association, records at the secretary of state's office reveal.

Funds for aged, blind, disabled

Burton warns on aid cutoff

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Democratic legislator said Friday that state welfare funds for California's 500,000 aged, blind and disabled could be cut off Jan. 1 unless the State Legislature is called back in session.

Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, based his statement on a legal opinion prepared for him by the legislative counsel's office.

That opinion said the state controller does not have legal authority under current state law to turn California welfare funds over to the federal government. Such a transfer is required under a federal welfare reform measure taking effect next Jan. 1.

However, the counsel's opinion is based on assumptions supplied by Burton, including an interpretation of specific authorities in current law which have previously been disputed by the Reagan administration.

Gentry Durham, a spokesman for State Controller Houston Flournoy said there is "no point in commenting" on the legislative counsel's opinion of

Collier-Behr battle looms for new district Senate seat

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The dean of the California Legislature, 70-year-old Randolph Collier, set the stage Friday to run next year against Peter Behr, one of the newest members of the State Senate.

Collier said he will move his residence from Yreka, where he has lived during 35 years as a legislator, into the proposed new 2nd Senatorial District that stretches from the Golden Gate to the Oregon border.

"I would rather run against Sen. Collier than anyone I can think of," responded Behr, a 58-year-old Republican with a reputation as a conservationist.

COLLIER switched his registration from Republican to Democrat in 1958 when the GOP lost control of the Legislature and it appeared he might lose his chairmanship of the Senate Transportation Committee. As head of that committee, he became known as "the father of the freeway."

Now he is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

He said the new district contains 59 per cent of his present constituents "and I owe an obligation to them."

Regardless of party affiliation, Collier has the reputation as a conservative and Behr's reputation is that of a liberal.

The shift is part of the reapportionment plan recommended by a panel of retired judges appointed by the State Supreme Court. The court will conduct a hearing on the redistricting plan Tuesday in San Francisco.

Behr, a resident of Tiburon who has served only two years in the Senate, labeled Collier "the senior survivor of the old guard in the Senate."

Twice Behr was named Marin County's outstanding conservationist and he authored legislation to ban dam construction on California's remaining wild rivers in what is Collier's current district.

"Essentially there is a difference in our thinking about the environment and the wise use of the North Coast's natural resources," Behr said. "Sen. Collier I am sure will be stumping the counties where he no doubt knows where every stump is located." The new district includes all of Marin, Mendocino, Lake, Humboldt and Del Norte counties, plus the western portion of Sonoma County — excluding Santa Rosa and the Sonoma Valley.

Welfare chief in contempt

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge Friday held David B. Swoap, state social welfare director, and his "agents" in contempt of court.

Judge Robert F. Peekham said that contrary to his express order of July 18, 1972, Swoap had instructed welfare directors and district attorneys that a welfare applicant or recipient must provide information about the absence of a parent from the home of a dependent child as a condition for getting assistance.

Swoap was ordered to inform all county welfare directors and all district attorneys that his June 26, 1973, letter concerning information about an absent parent "is to be completely disregarded."

The only exception is that eligibility for benefits granted only because of an absent parent can be conditioned on the person's stating that the other parent is in fact absent.

also told a Capitol news conference it "would be grounds for Reagan's impeachment . . . if these people are denied money by his failure to do something."

Reagan confirmed Friday that proponents have already spent about $1 million on behalf of Prop. 1, including budgeted radio and television time. It also includes $436,453 to qualify the issue because a suit which will settle the issue is already pending in the 3rd District Court of Appeal in Sacramento.

"The only way out is to have the Legislature in session to enact legislation in this whole broad area," Burton said. "The money could well stop" if that isn't done, he said.

Burton urged Gov. Reagan to call the Legislature back into an emergency session so it can pass legislation correcting the situation.

Burton, who is also chairman of the California Democratic Party, ties, plus the western portion of Sonoma County — excluding Santa Rosa and the Sonoma Valley.

HENRY KUIZENGA

Counseling theologian in series here

"The World With You in It" is the theme of a series to be presented the next three Sundays, starting tomorrow, at 7:30 p.m. in Lakewood First Presbyterian Church, 3955 Studebaker Road, by Dr. Henry Kuizenga, professor of preaching at Southern California School of Theology at Claremont.

Kuizenga has taught at Princeton University, Princeton Theological Seminary and San Francisco Theological Seminary. He has counseled extensively with couples and students in marriage and pre-marital situations, and has been a member of seminars on counseling at Menninger's. There is no admission charge, and child care will be provided.

Area pastor's book takes different tack

By LARRY LYNCH
Staff Writer

WHEN THE WOOD IS GREEN. By Arthur F. Suelz. Harper & Row, $4.95.

"The really great men don't offer solutions. They keep pointing to reality and asking, 'all right, what about it?'" writes Rev. Arthur Suelz.

The pastor of Lakewood First Presbyterian Church in northeastern Long Beach likes to approach an idea from an unusual angle. As a result, our minds at first may offer resistance to what he says but in the end get a better hold on it.

In this brief, well-written book it seems that he is saying that perceiving reality not as we would like it to be but as it is must be a part of the solution to this life.

To this end, it is the creative force of what Jesus said and did that interests the pastor. There aren't many prohibitions in his book.

In day to day life, Art Suelz does not strike this reviewer — a member of his congregation for four years now — as the kind of minister usually found shepherding a medium-sized church in a solid middle class neighborhood.

He is an uncommonly literate, impressive-looking man who is often frank in the pulpit about his liberal political views, at least on matters concerning race, education and urban problems. He is also a private and somewhat self-conscious person, much more comfortable behind the pulpit than chatting with churchgoers during a coffee break. And his Lakewood-Long Beach area congregation clearly likes his style.

"I suppose any preacher can be popular if he's halfway eloquent and affirms the prejudices of his listeners and urges them to see Jesus in the achievements of their already established goals," he writes. "But I find myself getting into trouble when what I see in Jesus does not conform to such goals and ambitions."

"I find myself getting caught in that same trap. I mean, I attend church meetings and serve on committees and teach classes and call on people and pray and tithe. Then one day I saw how much of it was simply my ambition to 'get ahead' of some other preachers. All for the glory of God, of course! And as I look around among other Christians I sense the same tendency. Yet Jesus seems to go on choosing those ambitious competitive people and making some of them his closest, most trusted friends. He seems to look for people who have no time to take their time."

The theme of Rev.

Suelz's book is the overcoming of some of the pitfalls of early middle age. The author attacks each, ambition, prejudice, despair and sex, with such clearcut perception and honest ambivalence that the reader he knows how it is:

"Now I've begun to rediscover that when God created sex, He created a good thing. But I'm also beginning to see that the idea that I can treat my sexual partner as an attractive but disposable item is as old as hell."

The genius of Rev. Suelz is that he can put himself in our shoes.

His trademark, long familiar to his congregation, is conversing with the Lord.

As in the book when he sums up:

"Sometimes I think I can hear the Lord saying to me, 'Art... look at me with your own eyes. As if you were seeing me for the first time. Forget for a minute all that the theologians have told you, and try to see me for yourself. But then, for God's sake, get moving... Don't miss the coming of God's springtime and those green shoots of new life poking their way up through the garbage.'"

Despite his first person writing style, Rev. Suelz tells us not much about himself.

The theme is set in the opening paragraphs with mention of the time when "somewhere in our thirties or early forties a lot of us feel like life has us by the throat."

REFORMATION RALLY SUNDAY

The seven Long Beach and Lakewood congregations of the American Lutheran Church will hold their annual Reformation Rally Sunday at 7 p.m. in Our Saviour's Lutheran, 370 Junipero Ave., with the general public invited.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Roald Kindem, vice president for development at California Lutheran College, Thousand Oaks, who will speak on "Needed: Reformation Today."

There will be a concert by a choral union of 100 voices, with members from the seven churches: Bethel, Christ, Holy Trinity, Holy Spirit, Our Saviour's, St. Timothy and University. Refreshments will be served.

make the final phase inevitable."

The Biblical cycle, he adds, began with Israel's restoration, the hostility she has faced from surrounding nations, and her deliverance from it. When the final cataclysm occurs, he believes, "Israel will survive. Many will be killed. But Israel will not be exterminated." He cites Zechariah 13:8 about casualties, and Romans 11:26 that "Israel will be saved."

He sees a peace pact by the Arab countries and Israel still ahead, then war again. "This is a cycle that we're going to see over and over again for a period of time," the theologian says, "culminating with worldwide tribulation and the final war, the battle of Armageddon. At the height of that war, Jesus will come back and set up his kingdom."

GEORGE HIGGINS, who died last week, was a cheerful and important contributor to Long Beach religious life, and thus to Long Beach. He was a Presbyterian who undertook highly responsible work for the Southern California Synod of his own denomination, yet he found the time to play an equally important role in the broader ecumenical life of his city.

For the past two years he was chairman of the crucial Finance Committee of the Long Beach Area Council of Churches, one of the tougher and often less appreciated tasks. He was also a valued board member of the local National Council of Christians and Jews.

On the occasions we met, I always came away from George Higgins with a pleasant feeling, and with a renewed appreciation for the fact that there are people like him to be found in the cities of America, quiet doers who give of themselves not for gain or publicity, but out of their conviction and their faith.

Our sympathy to Mrs. Higgins and the rest of the family in their loss. We are sure that along with their sorrow they feel pride in the kind of life George Higgins led.

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norm Vincent Peale

Guide to problem solving

A married couple had a tough problem. They had done everything they could think of about it. Finally, the husband who called himself a realist admitted defeat. He went to bed knowing that at six o'clock the next morning he would be set in motion which would close the matter with tragic consequences for them. He tossed fitfully.

At five in the morning, he was awakened by his wife. She was standing over him and he seemed to see something different in her face. "I've been praying all night long," she said. "I've got an answer."

"I know, honey," he told her patiently, "but it's too late. It's all over. Nothing can be done."

"No," she answered. "I do not accept that. I want you to get out of bed and pray with me."

HE DID SO, more to humor her than anything else. In her sleepless night of prayer a thought had crystallized in her mind and she outlined it to him. He wasn't too convinced, but agreed to let her try out her idea. She went to the telephone and made a long distance call to the people involved, offering the new suggestion for a solution. Her reception was encouraging. They seemed surprised and told her: "This is a new angle. We'll call you back."

Husband and wife sat and waited, praying all the time. Again and again, the wife assured her husband: "Something is happening. God is working on this. The answer is developing. I know it."

CHURCH HUMOR

"To solve his conscience, he watches the other one during the commercials."

Celebration of missions

A "World Wide Mission Celebration" will be held Sunday afternoon, bringing people from 50 Southern churches together at First Baptist of Santa Ana, reports Rev. Dr. Philip Ray of Long Beach Immanuel Baptist, among the participants.

A Procession of the Nations will be put on by the youth of the host church, carrying flags of the countries where there are American Baptist missionaries, with missionaries, or nationals of the countries marching with them. There will be a massed youth choir.

Keynote speaker will be Rev. James Conklin, the denomination missionary among the Hill Tribes of Thailand.

Teacher tells talks with famed guru

An area teacher who spent three weeks in India at an ashram with famous guru Sai Baba has returned convinced that the Indian has the answers to what ails the world.

Mrs. Camille Svensson, writer and lecturer who teaches classes in parapsychology at Cypress College, will speak Sunday, 3 p.m. at the Theosophical Society, in the YWCA building, Sixth and Pacific, on "Would you recognize an avatar?"

An avatar, she explained in a chat this week, is omnipotent, omniscient and omnipresent, and the last one was Krishna, more than 5,000 years ago. Sai Baba proclaims himself the reincarnation of Krishna.

Before going to India, Mrs. Svensson relates, she was told by Howard Murphel, author of "Man of Miracles," who arranged for her meetings with Sai Baba, that she could contact the "avatar" mentally from here if she tried.

She was successful, she says, and felt "an outpouring of love."

The materialization of objects for which Sai Baba is famed, she says, is used to win faith so that people can give their love to God. "He believes the real miracle to be inner change. He wants to give a spiritual education to the world, to return it to the spiritual and moral laws."

Mrs. Svensson now wears a locket with a picture of the 46-year-old leader. "He knew I wanted a picture," she says, "so one day when I was adjusting my locket he

Lutheran meets study amnesty

Amnesty for war resisters was on the agenda of more than half the 1973 conventions of regional units of U.S. Lutheran church bodies.

Seventeen of the 30 U.S. synods of the Lutheran Church in America acted on amnesty proposals, as did eight of the American Lutheran Church's 18 districts. Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod districts do not officially meet in 1973, but five of the 35 LCMS districts in the U.S. considered amnesty in 1972. (A few synods and districts had amnesty discussions but without proposals calling for a vote.)

WHAT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CAN DO FOR A FAMILY.

It can bring an understanding of God's closeness and care, helping each one in the family in everything he does.

It can develop a deep love for the Bible, and joyful obedience to God's law.

It can teach every member, and the family together, to heal problems in the way Jesus showed.

How can Christian Science do all this? Through Sunday School classes that strengthen children. Through Sunday services that inspire parents. Through Wednesday testimony meetings where personal accounts of healing are shared. Through Reading Rooms where truths are pondered in quiet.

Won't you invite Christian Science into your family's life?

Message on Middle East

Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev tells a meeting of the Congress of World Peace Forces in Moscow that Russian representatives have been sent to the Middle East to observe the cease-fire. He encouraged the U.S. to do likewise. Brezhnev gave no details, but diplomats said it appeared he was talking about civilian observers rather than Soviet troops.

Weekend decision expected

Bork mulls Cox successor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork expects to appoint a new special Watergate prosecutor quickly and make his decision final during the weekend, the Justice Department said Friday night.

But congressional Democrats remained skeptical of joint assurances by Nixon and Bork that the new prosecutor will have a free hand.

JUSTICE Department spokesman John Hushen said Bork's selection probably will be made with White House concurrence and that Bork "presumably" will be in touch with intended choice during the weekend.

There were indications that Bork already has decided on his first choice.

Before Nixon's announcement at his news conference, Bork said he recommended the step and had submitted five or six names to the White House for consideration.

Hushen said Bork knew in advance that Nixon would announce the decision to appoint a successor to Archibald Cox.

Asked if that means

Nixon will concur in the selection, Hushen replied, "I think the answer to that is yes."

Bork said his preferred choice "all have prosecutorial experience and none currently is in government."

Bork disclosed his recommendations, made in conversations earlier Friday with White House officials, in an interview with a small group of newsmen.

ASKED specifically if he had recommended a special prosecutor, he replied, "I'll tell you that I think there ought to be one because of the necessity for public acceptance. I feel like an honest man but how can I expect anyone else to know that?"

Questioned about details of his recommendation, Bork replied, "I don't want to get to the point where I'm describing what I recommended in too much detail, but I did recommend a special prosecutor. I did recommend that he ought to have the freedom Archibald Cox had. I did recommend that he ought to be a man with prosecutorial experience."

NIXON PRESS CONFERENCE

Sirica to appoint an independent prosecutor for the Watergate investigation under judicial authority. That presumably would eliminate any possibility that Nixon could dismiss a new prosecutor.

The new prosecutor, Nixon said, "will have independence, he will have total cooperation of the executive branch, and he will have permanent responsibility to bring this matter which has so long concerned the American people, to bring it to an expeditious conclusion."

Nixon said White House lawyers would meet with Sirica Tuesday to arrange to turn over the nine tapes Cox had sought of the President's Watergate-related conversations with former White House and political advisers. Nixon was under orders by two federal courts to relinquish the tapes.

But Nixon added that, "We will not provide presidential documents to the special prosecutor" which involve any conversations with the President. He said he was willing only to provide "information needed from such documents" — presumably in summary form at his discretion.

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd said before the news conference that if the Senate bill passed and Nixon tried to veto it, "he creates another severe political crisis." Byrd and some other Democrats predicted the Senate might well override such a veto to ensure appointment of a special prosecutor beyond Nixon's reach.

Just before he was fired for refusing Nixon's order to halt further court efforts to obtain the tapes, Cox told a news conference he also intended to get presidential notes, logs, memoranda and other papers that might yield evidence for the Watergate grand juries.

A reporter recalled Bork's recent statement that he would take Nixon to court, if necessary, to obtain any further tape recordings or documents needed for the Watergate prosecution. Bork hinted he might resign if the federal prosecutors' efforts are impeded.

But Nixon, referring to Cox's successor to be appointed by Bork next week, said: "I don't anticipate we would come to the time when he would feel it necessary to take the President to court."

Nixon defended his ability to govern by pointing to his handling of the Middle East situation, as well as his decision to bomb Cambodia and take other unpopular steps to end the Vietnam war and arrange the return of American prisoners.

Nixon said the Watergate scandal was "deplorable" and "very damaging to this administration, and to the country as well."

For that reason, he said, he was eager to bring the matter to a close.

Added Nixon: "It is time for those who are guilty to be prosecuted; it is time for those who are innocent to be cleared."

NIXON RIPPED, PRAISED

the concept of a truly independent prosecutor named by Congress, to release key documents, or to allow court review of his decision, makes it imperative that the House now expedite impeachment proceedings.

Rep. Donald W. Riegle Jr. of Michigan, a Republican recently turned Democrat, said, "I'm amazed that he's still trying to continue the cover-up. I think it's obvious that he's afraid of the truth."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said he was glad the President agreed to name the special prosecutor and added: "It should be done under such arrangements as to assure total independence."

SEN. HOWARD H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., a member of the Senate Watergate Committee suggested a "duo special prosecutor," with the President naming one man and Congress the other.

"This might be the only way we can get around partisan accusations," Baker said.

The sharp give-and-take between Nixon and several reporters at the news conference drew both praise and condemnation for the President.

"It was a cool, reassuring performance in a very tense, hostile atmosphere," said Senate Republican Whip Robert P. Griffin of Michigan. "He demolished myths about his ability to govern under fire."

But Muskie contended, "He tried to divert us with a slashing attack on the news media."

"I thought that the President's vendetta with the press reached a new low. No case has been made that the press is vicious or unfair or one-sided," said Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

BUT PROXMIRE said Nixon's description of his action on the Middle East crisis was impressive "and with respect to results, he seems to have gotten them."

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., denounced the President's plan to appoint his own special prosecutor but supported the President's Middle East action.

"It seems that the crisis evaporated pretty quickly," Tunney said.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., speaking in Brussels, also praised the President's actions on the Mideast and said he supported them entirely.

Moves to impeach hit by Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Reagan Friday said persons urging impeachment of President Nixon must be considered "as simply politically motivated."

In a statement issued by his office following the President's news conference, Reagan said:

"Those who urged precipitant action and irresponsibility tried to erode our confidence (in the U.S. system of government) and must be considered as simply politically motivated until proof to the contrary is developed."

The governor also said Nixon's announcement on Middle East peace efforts "has once more demonstrated his mastery of world affairs."

day night, they said, the U.S. thought more than 1,000 Russian paratroopers were already on the way to Egypt.

Nixon said in the face of his own firmness, Brezhnev and he exchanged messages which resulted in the agreement that both powers would back the dispatch of a United Nations peacekeeping force that included the troops of neither nation.

Nixon's chronology of the events which led to the nation awakening to a new international crisis Thursday morning appeared to vary with the statement made that day by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Kissinger said the alert was ordered by Nixon only after the Security Council unanimously proposed it to him following a three-hour meeting early Thursday morning. But Nixon said he received word of the Soviets' "potentially explosive" moves and their intentions to send troops to Egypt before the meeting and "when I received that information I ordered an alert," he added.

Nixon blows up at 'vicious, outrageous' TV coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said Friday night that television coverage of the Watergate controversy has been the "most outrageous, vicious and distorted" he has seen in 27 years of public life.

"When people are pounded night after night with that kind of frantic, hysterical reporting, it naturally shakes their confidence," he said.

IN A 39-minute news conference which grew more and more tumultuous until it ended with a reporter shouting for recognition at Nixon, the President bluntly and on several occasions criticized the news media — particularly television news and commentary.

Nixon named no specific news organization directly but alluded at one point to the Columbia Broadcasting System.

"The President said he did not want to leave the impression that he dislikes or does not respect news reporters."

"But when a commentator takes a piece of news and then with knowledge of what the facts are, distorts it viciously, I have no respect for that individual," he said.

"What is it about the television of these past weeks and months that has so aroused your anger?" Robert Pierpoint, a correspondent for the CBS television network had asked Nixon earlier.

"DON'T get the impression that you arouse my anger," the President replied, as the audience of reporters broke into laughter. "One can only be angry about those he respects."

Nixon's jab at the news media began when he was asked what goes through his mind when he hears from persons who have supported him in the past that he should now resign or be impeached.

"Well, I'm glad we don't take a vote in this room," he said.

One reporter asked Nixon how he is bearing up emotionally under the stress of recent events.

"Those who saw me during the Middle East crisis, thought I bore up rather well," he said. "The tougher it gets, the cooler I get."

The President said it was unpleasant to have his honesty and stability questioned in public. And he said it was not pleasant to hear what he called untrue allegations on television.

Alluding to past fights with the news media, Nixon said: "Because I have been through so much, that may be one of the reasons I have what it takes."

IN SOME of the strongest language he has ever used about the reporting of his administration,

Nixon said: "I have never seen such outrageous, vicious, distorted reporting in 27 years of public life."

"I'm not blaming anybody for that," he said. "Perhaps what happened is that what we did brought it about and therefore the media decided they would have to take that particular line."

"But when people are pounded night after night with that kind of frantic, hysterical reporting, it naturally shakes their confidence," he said, adding:

"Yet, I should point out that even in this week when many thought that the President was shell-shocked, unable to act, the President acted decisively in the interests of peace and the interests of the country."

"And I can assure you that whatever shocks gentlemen of the press may have, or others, political people — these shocks will not affect me in doing my job."

Although Nixon named no individual newsman or network, he alluded to CBS in response to a question put by its White House correspondent, Dan Rather.

"I know for example," the President said, "in your head office in New York, some thought that it (this week's Middle East turmoil) was simply a blown-up exercise; that there wasn't a real crisis. I wish it had been that."

After the news conference CBS News President Richard S. Salant said the network was convinced "that none of the network reporting justifies the adjectives the President used Friday night."

"Our job is to report on the President and his activities," Salant said. "Therefore, we are professionally obligated to try not to be directly involved in a dispute with the President."

"We have transcripts of all CBS news broadcast," he said. "We believe any objective examination of these will establish the accuracy and propriety of our reporting."

He served in the Nixon administration between July 22, 1969, and May 30, 1970, as a deputy counsel to the President with a special mandate to investigate possible scandals and call them to the attention of the appropriate government agencies.

Mollenhoff gets Nixon's ear — by shouting loudly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Clark Mollenhoff, currently one of President Nixon's most persistent critics, formerly was one of his aides.

Mollenhoff, a Pulitzer prize-winning reporter and the Washington bureau chief for the Des Moines Register and Tribune, shouted several times to get the President's attention during the Friday evening news conference.

When he was ignored, he persisted in louder tones.

Finally, Nixon turned to him and said: "You are so loud I will have to take you."

"I have to be," Mollenhoff retorted, "because you happen to dodge my questions all the time."

Mollenhoff is widely known in Washington as a tough and persistent questioner of government officials. Some have complained privately that he is abusive.

He served in the Nixon administration between July 22, 1969, and May 30, 1970, as a deputy counsel to the President with a special mandate to investigate possible scandals and call them to the attention of the appropriate government agencies.

USC VS. NOTRE DAME: A FLIP OF THE COIN

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — This is the time that tries men's souls. USC and Notre Dame, facing each other undefeated for the first time since 1947.

USC, attempting to keep intact a string of unbeaten games that has reached 23.

Notre Dame, trying to erase the stigma of a six-year drought against the Trojans—no victories since a 51-0 smasher in 1966.

College football at its best and an intersectional rivalry which dates back to 1926.

There will be the usual sellout crowd of 59,075 fanatics sitting in at Notre Dame Stadium, otherwise known as Whiskey Gulch.

The ABC Network will televise the game "regionally" to 85 per cent of the U.S. population. Ch. 7 will carry it in the Southland, beginning at 10:59 a.m., PDT.

Odds makers flipped a coin on this one and it came up standing. The contest is rated even.

But here in the Land of Lore, Irish backers believe this is the year to unmask the Trojans, who have come a long way, baby, since the trip into South Bend was a biennial nightmare.

Perhaps no one will be under closer scrutiny of the crowd and a vast television audience than USC tailback Anthony Davis.

Davis scored six touchdowns against the Irish in the Trojans' 45-23 victory last year at the L.A. Coliseum.

No one had done that before against Notre Dame and even Davis believes it will never happen again.

"It was one of those occasions when everything broke right," he says. "Unless Notre Dame goes way downhill in future years, I can't see it occurring again."

Neither do the Irish. A.D. is on their Most Wanted List.

Notre Dame coach Ara Parseghian waffled at midweek on whether the Irish would kick directly to Davis, who ran back two against them in 1972.

"I've gotten lots of mail from priests on what to do on the kick-off," he says. "I'll base my decision on the wind factor."

"If there's not much wind, we may have Bob Thomas kick it away from Davis. But if Lynn Swann is back there, too, we don't have much choice."

"You can squib kick, but then you relinquish field position."

Translated, this means, "I don't know what in hell I'm going to do."

The Irish have weapons of their own, principally speed they've never had before. Halfbacks Art Best and Eric Peniek are jet fast, and have figured prominently in Notre Dame's 5-0 record.

But the player the Trojans fear most is quarterback Tom Clements.

"You'll find better running quarterbacks and better passing quarterbacks," says USC coach John McKay. "But you won't find any quarterback who has a better blend of both. He puts extreme pressure on the defense."

Defense is where USC is hurting.

Outside linebacker James Sims is crippled with an ankle injury and another outside backer, Ed Powell, has quit the squad.

Ray Rodriguez, a veteran, will fill in if Sims is unable to play. He will be supported by a freshman, Ricky Bell, a youngster of great promise but very limited experience.

The Trojans have been yielding more yardage and points than McKay expected after they had displayed skill in limiting Oklahoma to seven points.

"Defense depends on intensity," says McKay. "and maybe we haven't been intense lately."

The Irish will have their problems trying to stop Davis, quarterback Pat Haden and split receivers Swann and Johnny McKay.

Haden is hitting 58 per cent of his passes and has thrown for nine touchdowns.

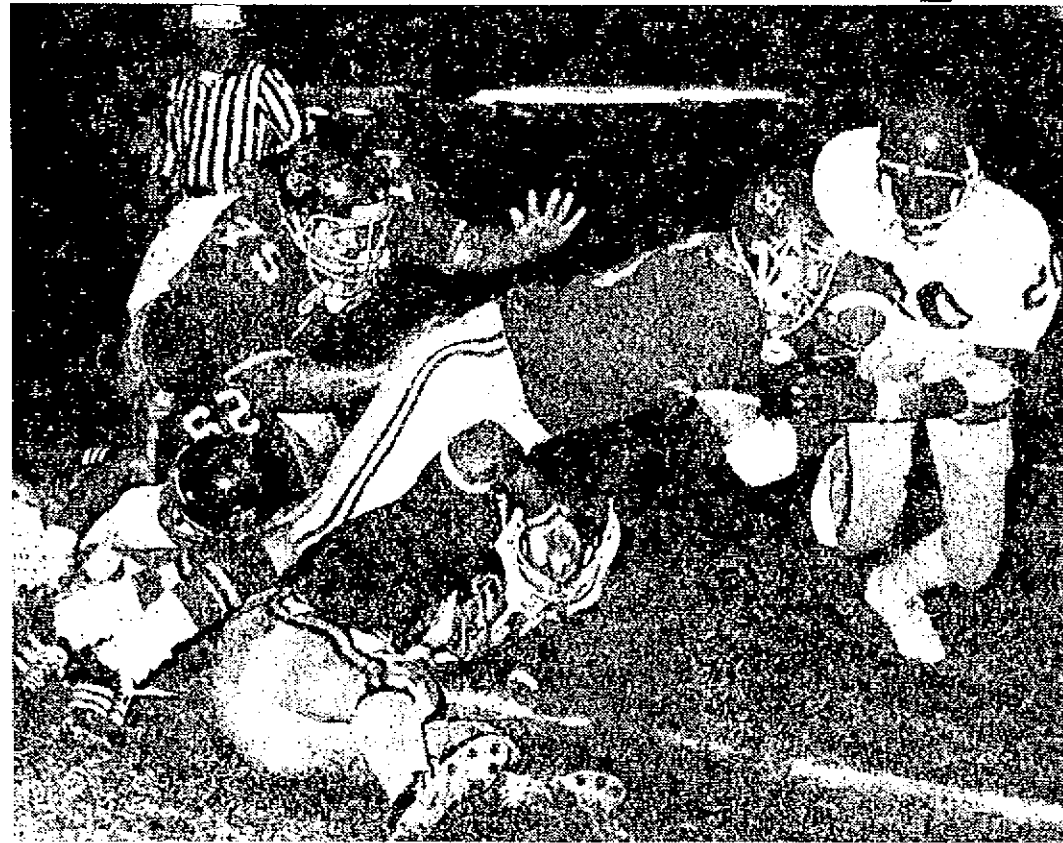

"I agree with everything John McKay has said about Haden," says Parseghian.

"We may try it 20 times this week," warns McKay.

With a grin he adds: "Maybe we won't, too."

Somewhere, Rock and The Gipper and Pat O'Brien are wondering.

Wilson finds 2 tailbacks to trample Jordan, 27-6

By GARY ELLIS
Staff Writer

"We found a couple of pretty good tailbacks, didn't we," quizzed Wilson high coach, Owen Dixon.

That may have been an understatement.

Dennis Hutton and Rick Sonntag replaced the injured Tony Gipson Friday night and powered Wilson Past Jordan, 27-6.

Hutton, who hadn't carried the ball all season, gained 110 yards on 19 carries and scored three times while Sonntag picked up 103 yards on 15 carries.

The Bruin offense, shut out last week by Millikan, 21-0, picked up 245 yards rushing, which included 12 first downs on the ground. But more importantly, the Wilson ground attack kept the ball away from Jordan.

Wilson ran 41 plays in the first half to the Panthers' 24 — only eight in the second quarter.

The Bruins defense, headed by junior Clyde Mailes, was prepared.

Lewis Agajanian and Alan Mattson blocked David Oliver punts and Calvin Ho picked off two Steve Lee aerials.

"They (Jordan) use an old style of punting," pointed out Dixon. "The first downs... Passes attempted... Passes completed... Passes intercepted... Yards gained passing... Yards gained rushing... Yards lost rushing... Net yards rushing... Total net yards... Fumbles... Own fumbles recovered... Penalties (by yards)...

kicker lines up only 10 yards back. We figured we could block 'em."

Wilson won the game in the second quarter when its runners scored 21 points. However, the Bruins played like the ball was ice the first three times they touched it.

On the first play of the night Kevin Warner fumbled under a rush and Jordan's Bob Edwards recovered. The Panthers were able to move only nine yards on four downs.

On their fourth offensive play of the night, the Bruins Sonntag fumbled and Jim Bumpers scooped up the ball and dashed 45 yards for the Panthers' points.

Three plays after the Jordan touchdown, Warner fumbled again, and Edwards was on top of the ball. However, the Panther offense couldn't move.

Late in the first period Wilson's running attack began churning out yards. The Bruins marched 74 yards on 12 plays with Hutton scoring from seven yards out. Scott Kirkland converted to give Wilson a 7-6 lead.

Agajanian blocked a Panther punt four plays later. Eight plays after that Warner powered over from the one to boost the score to 14-6.

Tolliver the hero for Rams

The intriguing aspect about this year's Millikan High team is how the Rams keep coming up with a different hero every week.

turn Friday night as the 155-pound junior halfback ran for 114 yards and one touchdown to lead the Rams to a 14-6 victory over previously undefeated Compton at Veterans Stadium.

Although both schools are 5-1 over-all, the important difference is Millikan's 2-0 standing in the Moore League which elevates the Rams into a first place tie with Lakewood.

Tolliver set up Millikan's first score with a 28-yard burst to the eight.

then added the clincher four minutes into the fourth quarter from 12 yards out against the tenacious Tarbabe defense.

Compton, which had allowed only two touchdowns in its first five games, gave ground grudgingly Friday night.

Millikan managed 251 yards rushing out of its Wishbone, but the passing attack was practically non-existent and four fumbles, including one on the Tarbabe one in the third quarter, were particularly annoying to head coach Dick DeHaven.

But the defense, which has taken a back seat to the offense most of the season, performed well although it didn't have to contend with Derrick Martin most of the game.

Martin, an all-league selection as a sophomore last year and the team's leading rusher with 529 yards in five games, was forced out of Friday night's contest at the seven minute mark of the first quarter. The injury

L.B. STATE TARGETS ON FIRST VICTORY

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

An appropriate going-away gift for Jim Stangeland?

"A win," suggests the Colonel, "any kind of a win."

The Long Beach State football team will try to give the coach a win tonight in his last appearance at Veterans Stadium.

Tonight's 8 o'clock opponent, UC Riverside, is anything but a soft touch, but it is the closest thing remaining on the 49er schedule that resembles a pillow.

The 49ers conclude the current season with three road contests — San Diego State, Wichita State and Cal Poly, SLO — so if the Highlanders prevail tonight, the 49ers are looking down the barrel of an 0-10-1 season, which would be the first winless year in Long Beach State's football history.

Stangeland is aware of that.

"I don't even care how we win it," says Stangeland, 51, who has announced he will retire at the end of the current season, his fifth year at Long Beach State.

"I'd settle for us recovering a football in their end zone while they're in the locker room at halftime," said Stangeland.

The 49ers may need that kind of luck. "A lot of people don't think much about Riverside because they haven't heard anything about their team," says Stangeland.

"But they are an excellent team. Riverside, in fact, could be the quickest team we will face all year."

"I'm sure they will be difficult to contain, because they have several athletes who are capable of breaking the long gainer at any time. Their tailback, Derrick Williams, is the same type back Terry Metcalf was for us. He can score at any time."

Williams is the backbone of the Highlander attack, as he was last year when he rushed for 884 yards and 11 touchdowns on a Riverside team that was 9-1.

The Highlanders are 4-2 this season which, if nothing else, makes them four wins better than the 49ers, who find themselves in the unenviable position of being a "prestige" opponent for Riverside, which is a college division team.

The 49ers have made offensive adjustments since last week's 15-14 loss to Fresno State.

In that game defensive back Paul Horn displayed some running ability by returning seven punts 172 yards, a collegiate high for this season, so he has been moved to tailback.

Tom Brown will start tonight's non-league contest, but Stangeland promises that Horn, who was a running back last year at El Camino, will see plenty of action.

Ram game plan: Pick and peck

Edited by RICH ROBERTS

Coach Mike McCormack took less talent to Minnesota last week than Chuck Knox will have this week, but went home to Philadelphia only seven points short, 28-21.

McCormack says he's figured out how to play the Vikings:

"You have to play pick and peck. You play to get those second-and-four situations."

Eagle quarterback Roman Gabriel picked and pecked with short passes, completing 23 of 32, mostly for short gains to the backs. That will be part of John Hadl's plan for the Rams Sunday, but by no means all of it.

"The main thing in play calling is preparation during the week," says Hadl. "If the coaches have a good game plan and the other 10 players are executing, I look like a good play caller."

"The thing I have to do in the first quarter is find out if the defense is basically doing what it has done in the past. If they stick with what they've done before, we have certain things we want to do. If they change, we change."

"When you've been in pro ball 12 years, it doesn't take long to get a feel for things."

HADL REMAINS the top-rated passer in the National Football League with a score of 129.3 points.

Based on the same scoring table, the top one-season performance ever was 110.4 by Cleveland's Milt Plum in 1960. Hadl's rating is remarkable, especially in the era of the smothering zone defense.

"Against man-for-man," Hadl says, "if your receiver is covered you can throw the ball over his head deliberately."

"But against the zone there's always a chance somebody will intercept you, even if you throw a perfect pass. As a result, the good teams today don't throw much unless they have to... but you need things you can count on when you pass."

INSIDE THE NFL

"It's a different era. Football today is a game of turnovers, field position and mistakes. The top teams run the ball until they see an opportunity for a quick strike."

That's where Harold Jackson and Jack Snow come in. In 11 years with the Chargers, now struggling worse than ever, Hadl never has had it so good.

"This is the thing you dream about," he says, "coming to the right place at the right time."

NOTABLE QUOTES:

N.Y. Jets coach Weeb Ewbank, on rookie quarterback Bill Demery: "This kid's great. He's not as nervous as I am."

Atlanta coach Norm Van Brocklin on why the Falcons can win big but also lose big: "We don't have anybody here who's smart enough to figure those things out."

Houston running back Paul Robinson, on what new coach Sid Gillman told the team after its sixth loss: "He told us we stunk the joint out and asked us what kind of men we were."

Baltimore quarterback Marty Domres, on his first start (which he won) at Detroit: "Ready? I was up at 6 o'clock this morning."

Charger QB Dan Fouts, on San Diego fans: "It's like playing away from home."

Deacon Jones, also Charger: "We've got fine talent... it isn't the system (and) we've got no internal problems whatsoever."

WHEN THE CHARGERS played in Pittsburgh two weeks ago, Steele tackle Ernie Holmes asked John Unitas to autograph a football before the game.

"I dreamed of playing against you ever since I was in high school," Holmes told Unitas.

Unitas wrote on the ball, "To Fats Holmes — have a fine year, but take it easy today."

VETERAN CORNERBACK Cornell Green, 33, of the Dallas Cowboys was asked recently how many times he'd been beaten by "the bomb."

"None," Green replied.

"None?" his interrogator asked incredulously.

"No, never. Well, maybe one of those guys beat me once in a while, but while I'm walking off the field I talk myself out of it."

AROUND THE LEAGUE: Incredibly, the New York Jets will play their first home game of the season when they host the Denver Broncos Sunday. The Jets, on the road for 12 consecutive weeks, have been pushed out of Shea Stadium by the Jets. Three games were switched to accommodate the National League playoffs and the World Series. Fifteen members of the team never have played there as Jets...

The Broncos continued to be taunted by their goalposts. Opponents now have connected on all 18 field goal tries. The topger was Monday night's 49-yarder by Oakland's GEORGE BLANDA with 30 seconds to play, forcing JIM TURNER to kick one seconds later for a tie. Wide receiver GARY GARRISON of Long Beach, out three weeks with a dislocated shoulder, is expected to return to the Chargers' lineup at Cleveland Sunday.

THIS WEEK'S ANGLES:

RAMS (6-0) AT MINNESOTA (6-0) — Rams top NFL in offense, lead NFC in defense, but Tarkenton usually spells trouble. CINCINNATI (4-2) AT PITTSBURGH (3-1) — Steelers' only loss was to Bengals, 19-7, two weeks ago.

GREEN BAY (2-2) AT DETROIT (1-4-1) — Packers needed break to cross 50-yard line vs. Rams; needed last-minute field goal to tie Lions five weeks ago, 13-13.

MIAMI (5-1) AT NEW ENGLAND (2-4) — Dolphins shut off O.J. sacked Buffalo QB 9 times; Patriots have even less offense.

WASHINGTON (5-1) AT NEW ORLEANS (2-4) — Redskins offense in gear at last; defense slumped for points (6-0) in league.

ATLANTA (3-3) AT SAN FRANCISCO (3-3) — 49ers won three weeks ago, 13-9; Falcons always have trouble scoring on "em.

DALLAS (4-2) AT PHILADELPHIA (1-4-1) — Roman Gabriel on beam for Eagles, who have lost 11 in series.

SAN DIEGO (1-5) AT CLEVELAND (4-2) — Browns coming off biggest win, Chargers' morale at all-time low.

OAKLAND (3-2-1) AT BALTIMORE (2-1) — Raider QB Kenny Stabler, all-pro tackle Bob Brown nursing ankle injuries.

DENVER (2-3-1) AT N.Y. JETS (2-3) — Jets QB Al Woodall, RB Emerson Boozer, DT Ed Gallagher regaining health; first home game of season.

N.Y. GIANTS (1-4-1) AT ST. LOUIS (2-4) — Cardinal RBs Terry Metcalf, Donny Anderson injured.

HOUSTON (0-6) AT CHICAGO (1-5) — Bears' blitz (18 sacks) means rough day for Oilers QB Dan Pastorini.

KANSAS CITY (3-2-1) AT BUFFALO (4-2), Monday night — Strength (Chiefs' defense) against strength (O.J. Simpson); weakness (punchless K.C. offense) against weakness (Bills' defense).

Race of Champions begins today

Pole-sitter Fittipaldi shows surprise

Emerson Fittipaldi, a ruggedly handsome native of Brazil, matched speeds with Mark Donohue, America's fastest road racer, and won the pole position Friday for the first event in the International Race of Champions at Riverside Raceway.

"I'm surprised," said Fittipaldi, the 1972 formula 1 driving champion. "I thought Donohue would be the best, and he probably will be in the race. I have tremendous respect for him."

The 26-year-old Fittipaldi, hampered the last part of the International Grand Prix season by a foot injury he suffered at Monza, Italy, had never seen the 2.5-mile Riverside course until he toured it Tuesday in a Rolls Royce owned by another Brazilian, orchestra leader Sergio Mendez.

Fittipaldi took his sand-colored Porsche Carrera sports car around the nine-turn course in 1 minute, 28.42 seconds for a speed of 103.415 mph. His machine thus will carry the numeral "1" into today's initial heat in the four-race series.

Donohue, who has already clinched the Can-Am sports car racing title, was clocked in his white racer at 1:28.64 for a speed of 103.158 mph and gained the No. 2 starting spot.

The IROC brings together 12 of the world's best drivers in a series that pays $160,000 in prize money. After three races at Riverside this weekend, the top six point finishers will go on to Daytona Beach, Fla., for the final heat Feb. 15.

As expected, drivers who compete mostly on road courses had the best of the qualifying. Peter Revson, the 1971 Can-Am champ, was third fastest, followed by George Follmer, who won the

Can-Am in 1972, in fourth place.

The top qualifier from the oval track ranks was David Pearson, who was clocked at 1:29.32, for a speed of 102.373 mph. It was good for a fifth place start.

Denis Hulme of England, the 1967 world driving champion and twice a Can-Am titleholder, was sixth with a speed of 102.309.

The other six entries, in the order in which they will star the first race, are Bobby Unser, 101.94 mph; A. J. Foyt, 101.905; Bobby Allison, 101.341; Richard Petty, 101.566; Gordon Johncock, 100.373; and Roger McCluskey, 99.879.

Today's first race, 30 laps or 76.2 miles, begins at 12:30 p.m., while Sunday's finale will be run between two heats of the Riverside Grand Prix, the final Can-Am event of the season.

Hawaii is 4-0; tops Cup test

DONNELL CULPEPPER Staff Writer

Dennis Durgan, a Newport Beach youngster transplanted in the University of Hawaii, virtually wrapped up the Douglas Cup championship Friday by taking four consecutive matches.

All four were decisive victories.

Skipper Dick Loewy, taking three matches out of four for UCLA, was the only one who had a chance to catch Durgan as they go into today's final matches on the Olympic course off the Long Beach breakwater.

The matches, with eight colleges and universities participating, are being hosted by the Long Beach Yacht Club.

Long Beach State had the poorest showing, posting four blanks on the scoreboard. UC Irvine, University of Washington, Miami (Ohio) and Tufts University had two victories and two losses at the conclusion of the first day's racing. The other school, Tulane, had one victory, three losses.

Hawaii and UCLA will meet today in the sixth race. A victory for Hawaii in that match would give the title to Durgan and his crew.

The three-man crews are sailing 30-foot identical Shields; a boat extremely popular with college sailors.

Tufts, in winning its race with Tulane, lost a man overboard at the leeward mark, but maneuvered quickly to pick him up and still sail to victory.

Friday's summary:
First race: Hawaii def. UC Irvine 1-0; Tulane def. Long Beach State 1-0; Washington def. Miami (Ohio) 5-0; UCLA def. Tufts 1-0.
Second race: Miami def. UCLA 9-0; Washington def. UC Irvine 3-0; Tufts def. Long Beach State 4-0; Hawaii def. Tulane 1-1.
Third race: Hawaii def. Washington 1-0; UCLA def. Long Beach State 12-0; Tufts def. Tulane 2-0; UC Irvine def. Miami 14-0.
Fourth race: Miami def. Long Beach State 51-0; Hawaii def. Tufts 21-0; UC Irvine def. Tulane 1-56; UCLA def. Washington 1-21.

Texan jumps lead in tricks

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Ben Crenshaw of Austin, Tex., added another stroke to his lead Friday, moving in front by seven with a two under par 70 in the third round of the final 72-hole qualifying for the privilege of joining the Professional Golfers Assn. tour.

Gil Morgan, of Wewoka, Okla., moved from third to second place, Richard Mast of Lima, Ohio, who was second starting the day's round, dropped to third, and Gary McCord of Riverside moved from fifth to fourth.

Mahaffey is a former national collegiate champion from the University of Houston. He has yet to win as a professional, but in just two seasons on the tour has played well

Gonzalez a slight favorite tonight

Rodolfo Gonzalez, a skillful boxer-puncher from Long Beach makes the second defense of his World Boxing Council lightweight crown tonight against Italy's Antonio Puddu.

Gonzalez, 27, a Mexican national although he is a long-time resident of the United States, is a slight favorite against the once-beaten European 135-pound champion.

Gonzalez won his title Nov. 10, 1972, by stopping Mexico's Chango Carmona in 11 rounds and knocked out Ruben Navarro of Los Angeles in seven rounds in his first defense last March 17.

Both fights were at the Sports Arena, site of tonight's scheduled 15-round.

"I respect Puddu and I am aware of his record but it doesn't make any difference who I face," said Gonzalez. "The idea, of course, is to make him fight my way."

Gonzalez has a 56-5 record with 47 knockouts while his 29-year-old Italian opponent is 54-1-1 with 38 KOs. Puddu won the European title last year by knocking out Spain's Miguel Velasquez in four rounds.

The winner of the fight probably will be matched against the victor of the 10-round lightweight match on the same card between undefeated Jimmy Hear of Los Angeles and Tury Pineda of Mexico. Hear is 30-0 with 14 knockouts.

The Hear-Pineda fight will precede the Gonzalez-PuDDu title bout.

"After the fight, I'm going to spend a couple of weeks in Mexico City where they're planning a big affair to honor me," disclosed Gonzalez. "Of course, I better beat PuDDu first."

Said PuDDu: "I know this will be a very tough fight but I think I am better. I am not worried."

A crowd of 13,000 is expected. Gonzalez is getting $83,000 and PuDDu $20,000.

Two tie for lead in Sahara

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Baby-faced John Mahaffey fashioned a five-under par 66 and moved into a tie with veteran Lou Graham for the second-round lead Friday in the $135,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

Mahaffey, a shy, blond second-year pro who looks much younger than his 25 years, had a 36-hole total of 134, eight under par for the bright and sunny Sahara-Nevada Country Club course.

Graham, a drawing veteran of 10 years on the tour, had a second consecutive 67 and was tied for the top spot as the first-round leader encountered mild to serious trouble on the 6,800-yard, par 71 desert layout just a couple of miles from the Las Vegas Strip.

Dow Finsterwald, the 44-year-old former PGA champ who was in the three-way tie for the first-round lead, slipped to a 71 and was at 136. Allen Miller took a 72 for 137 and Romero Blancas, the other 18 hole pacesetter, went to 73-138.

Jim Ferrell, an eight-year tour regular who has yet to win a major title, managed a 67 and was just one stroke out of the lead at 135. Former national amateur champion Bruce Fleisher, who has had nothing but trouble and struggle as a professional, took a 69 and was tied with Finsterwald at 136.

David Graham, an Australian and no relation to Lou, belted into contention with a course record 64 for 137.

Mahaffey is a former national collegiate champion from the University of Houston. He has yet to win as a professional, but in just two seasons on the tour has played well

Kings' kids seek third win in row

By AL LARSON Staff Writer

A transfusion of young blood is beginning to alter the appearance of the Kings.

Coach Bob Pulford's skaters bid for their third NHL victory in a row tonight when they play the Detroit Red Wings at the Forum. A turnout of 10,000 is expected for the 8 o'clock faceoff.

The young vanguard of Vic Venasky, Randy Rota, Don Kozak, Larry Brown and Neil Komadoski are beginning to make things happen as the Kings (2-3-2) battle to reach the .500 level for the first time this season.

Venasky, the 22-year-old center in his second year with L.A., scored a pair of goals in the Kings' latest 6-4 victory over Atlanta. Venasky was the Kings' top choice in the 1971 amateur draft.

Rota joined the scoring act for the first time against the Flames. The 25-year-old winger was obtained from Montreal and also picked up an assist while Kozak, 24, is "coming around," according to Pulford, and has notched a point in the last three matches. Brown and Komadoski have lent new muscle to the defensive corps.

The Kings held a 2-0-1 home advantage over Detroit last year. The Wings currently are struggling, but still pack two of the NHL's top point-makers in Mickey Redmond and Nick Libett.

Padres 'acting' like they're staying in S.D.

Combined News Services

The San Diego Padres still don't know if they'll be the San Diego Padres next year, but at least they're acting like it.

While the future of the National League club is anything but certain, the Padres have acquired big names recently, with salaries to match their names.

After obtaining Matty Alou, who was released by the St. Louis Cardinals, they've now landed Willie McCovey in a trade with the San Francisco Giants.

The Padres acquired outfielder Bernie Williams city council meets in a closed-door session to consider a new contract with the club.

Besides McCovey and the Padres, the inter-league trading period got a brisk start Friday when Boston and St. Louis completed a much-advertised four-player swap.

The Cardinals sent ace righthanded pitcher Rick Wise and outfielder Bernie Carbo to the Red Sox in exchange for outfielder Reggie Smith and relief pitcher Ken Tatum who broke in with the Angels. The trade was rumored heavily during the World Series.

Major deals

Angels — Traded Clyde Wright, D. Ken Berry, of Art Krummer, of Steve Barber, D. to Milwaukee for Elie Rodriguez, C. Ollie Brown, of Gary Ryserson, D. Joe Lehou, of and Skip Lockwood, D.

San Francisco — Traded Willie McCovey, D. and Bernie Williams, D. to San Diego for Mike Caldwell, D. Boston — Traded Reggie Smith, D. and Ken Tatum, D. to St. Louis for Rick Wise, C. and Bernie Carbo, D.

Chicago Cubs — Traded Ferguson Jenkins, D. to Texas for Vic Harris, D. and Bill Madlock, D.

St. Louis — Traded Tommy Cruz, D. to Texas for Sonny Siebert, D. sold Mike Kelleher, D. to Houston; released Eddie Fisher, D. and Lou Krasuski, D. assigned Mike Nagy, D. to Tulsa.

Houston Astros — Released Jimmy Stew, D. assigned Juan Pizarro, D. to Denver; traded Hector Torres, D. to Chicago White Sox for player to be named later.

in the same deal, for pitcher Mike Caldwell. "I can play three or four more years," said the 35-year-old McCovey, who has been plagued with bad knees the last several seasons. "I like San Diego. I just hope they stay there."

The Padres' future, at least in San Diego, is expected to be decided Monday when the San Diego

MARMADUKE

By Brad Anderson

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: You are apt to spend the whole year trying to consolidate and improve the life style you've come to enjoy. Much success is promised where the luxury has been genuinely earned, but not where it was too quickly and easily gained. Relationships thrive all year thru thick and thin. Today's natives are by nature aggressive, magnetic, and thrifty. The men are generally powerful, the women very feminine.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Whatever course you follow, do it in style. The young people in your life take up much of your time. Avoid both haste and fatigue by early starting, sensible stopping points.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Unexpected benefits may be invoked simply. Share your good humor; let up on any pressure you've been exerting against others. Entertainment tends to be expensive but interesting.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): It is so easy and so needless to spoil an otherwise great Sunday with a lot of squabbling. There's every reason for making the rounds, gathering the news, but none for malice.

Cancer (June 21-July 20): Be prompt and at your best appearance as you do your share in the community's Sunday observances. There's no need for a great deal of explanation if you will be direct and explicit.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): In personal matters, today turns out to be one of decision. Just letting things drift is of itself a negative decision, for which the consequences may be drastic.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your company is welcome, particularly if you will take yourself out of your regular beaten tracks and no visit people you have not seen recently. Share sports and pastimes.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The further you can get from your accustomed Sunday habits and usual location, the better, once you're reasonably certain all is in order and secure. Take people up on their promises.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Spending proves nothing except that you wind up with less money than you had to begin with and very little to show for it. Avoid an impulse to boast or offer needless challenge.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Let others hold forth, make the noises and sustain the forward drive of our system. Your turn comes later and you need to be fresh and full of sound plans. It will be sooner than you imagine.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Let others hold forth, make the noises and sustain the forward drive of our system. Your turn comes later and you need to be fresh and full of sound plans. It will be sooner than you imagine.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Leave commercial and business concerns out of your Sunday. Once you've done your share in community customs, pursue social contacts. Romantic interests blossom pleasantly.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): By the time you've gotten thru the little chores you've left undone it will be time to exchange visits, renew old and new acquaintances, observe growth and progress of young people.

Annuities not for all

By DON CAMPBELL
What's the "perfect" investment? This should present no problem — it's no harder to define than the "perfect" woman, the "perfect" home or the "perfect" apple upside-down cake.

A matter of opinion . . . a matter of taste, you say? Odd. I never thought of that!

Q: IN 1964 when my husband retired (I am now 69) he had two insurance policies turned over to me and I have received monthly payments ever since and will continue to do so.

Now I am thinking of investing $20,000 in an annuity. I have AT&T stock and a good nest egg in a savings and loan paying 5½ per cent and 6 per cent. I would like to increase my monthly income with a safe investment. For instance, a life insurance company I queried will pay me $158.12 a month for my $20,000.

The yearly taxable portion is $791.23, and the guaranteed annual income of $1,897.41, derived from principal and interest, is 9.5 per cent of the purchase payment.

At my death my heirs would receive payments until the total of all annuity payments equals the single purchase payment, or they will have the right receive in one sum the present value of the remaining annuity balance.

What is your opinion of annuities in general, and this one in particular?

A: Whatever turns you on, I always say. Annuities are fine for many people, but not for all. The older you are, the better they tend to be and, in your case, I would say that the annuity that you have described is about par for the course—it's a good return on your money, it's worry-free (there's no way you can outlive it) and, in all likelihood, it will still leave your heirs with an estate of sorts.

Whenever I mention annuities in a favorable light — and cite a specific example — however, the heavens descend on me from a host of readers

Another point to keep in mind is that it is a rare, rare corporate bond, of good quality, that will provide a yield as high as the average annuity for anyone age 70 or older. What people frequently forget is that about 80 per cent of annuity payments are tax exempt since they are regarded as a return of principal, not interest.

Obviously, annuities aren't for everyone — those who are still young enough to be badly hurt by inflation, and those who feel that they must leave an estate for their heirs, principally. But, if the shoe fits, it tends to fit very comfortably.

great lengths to point out that essentially the same return can be obtained from some other investment device (usually corporate bonds) without disturbing the principal.

You have to keep a couple of points in mind when we talk about annuities and the key one is that there is no such thing as a "standard" annuity — every company computes it a little differently.

Age (even a few months) will change the calculations by a wide margin — especially when there is a significant age difference between husband and wife, and there are a dozen variations on the annuity idea.

The simplest, of course, is the nonrefundable annuity where, as soon as

TeleVues Actor Lorne Greene writes of 'Murder'

By BOB MARTIN TV-Radio Editor

A note from Lorne Greene arrived the other day.

It said: "In over 15 years in television, this is the first communication of this sort I've ever sent to a newsman. It's prompted by the fact that I've always placed a high premium on personal and professional honesty."

"I think this week's episode on Saturday night, 'Marked for Murder,' with Sal Mineo measures up to our early hopes for 'Griff' and is a portent of shows to come. I hope that you and your readers will tune in and let me know if you agree."

I imagine Lorne sent the note to TV writers throughout the nation. It may have been prompted, in part at least, by the fact that his new series has not been doing especially well in the ratings thus far. "Griff," which airs from 10 to 11 Saturday nights on ABC (Channel 7), was No. 44 in the national Nielsen for the week ending Sept. 30, No. 62 in the week ending Oct. 7 and No. 44 in the week ending Oct. 14.

This is no proof the series won't succeed. Even Lorne's "Bonanza," which ran for 13½ years, got off to a slow start.

IN TONIGHT'S episode, private eye Griff's friend, President Gamal Zaki, a Middle East crusader for peace, is the target of an assassin of many disguises during a visit to Los Angeles. Sal Mineo guest-stars as Zaki and Scott Hylands as the assassin.

The assassin makes his first attempt on Zaki's life at the airport, and Griff knows he will try again during the 20 hours Zaki and his aide, Omar, are in the city. Griff and his colleague, Mike Murdoch (Ben Murphy), and Police Capt. Barney Marrens (Vic Tayback), in charge of security, realize they will have to save Zaki's life without his cooperation, since he refuses to bow to terrorist tactics.

"THE PARTRIDGE Family," which airs from 8 to 8:30 Saturday nights on Channel 7, claims a "first" with tonight's episode: the first entertainment series ever to film an episode entirely at sea.

The cast and crew flew to Acapulco and filmed the show while sailing back to Los Angeles aboard the luxury cruise ship TSS Fairsea.

Star Shirley Jones and co-stars David Cassidy, Susan Dey, Dave Madden, Danny Bonaduce, Brian Foster, Suzanne Crough and guest performers mingled freely with passengers and 500 spirited Italian sailors on the five-day cruise.

Filming took place on six of the ship's decks. Staterooms doubled as dressing rooms. The ship's nursery became a makeup room.

Studio electricians had to convert the ship's electrical supply to one that could power lights and cameras. Film crew members had to adapt to shipboard routine, find their sea legs, dolly equipment politely around passengers and fight off the notion they were on vacation.

More than 100 passengers volunteered as extras for Mel Swope and William Bickley, producers of the Screen Gems series on ABC.

IT'S WEEKENDS like this that make football fans agree that television is the greatest thing since indoor toilets.

The tube will serve one blockbuster today and another Sunday. It's USC's Trojans vs. the Irish of Notre Dame today at South Bend, Ind., with the show starting at 10:45 a.m. on Channel 7. And Sunday at 11 a.m. on Channel 2, it's the unbeaten Los Angeles Rams against the undefeated Minnesota Vikings at Bloomington, Minn.

Who could ask for anything more?

THE AX IS already being swung at some of the new TV shows. First casualties of the 1973-74 season are two situation comedies, "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice" on ABC and "Roll Out!" on CBS.

ABC will replace the former, starting Wednesday, Nov. 28, in the 8 to 8:30 p.m. time slot, with five half-hour specials titled "Dick Clark Presents the Rock and Roll Years."

"Roll Out!" has been airing from 8:30 to 9 p.m. on Fridays. In the national Nielsen for the week ending Oct. 14, it finished No. 40 and "Bob & Carol" finished No. 60.

CHANNEL 34's 8½-hour daily news service, in English, which had its debut July 9, is being dropped because of poor audience response and lack of financial support. The cancellation reportedly means the firing of 25

By LARRY MEDER
HARBOR CHEVROLET

George was the kinda guy who lived and breathed golf - with which his wife completely disagreed. She resented his time - consuming pastime, which condemned her to many lonely hours by the fireside - watching the clock - (and television) in that order.

One day, after a very lengthy round on the links, George was changing back into street clothes at the locker-room when one of the four-some completely baffled, asked him how long he'd been wearing that shirt.

Altogether flustered and entirely embarrassed, he answered sheepishly, "EVER since my wife found it in my glove-box!"

Folks if you're strapped for cash and think you can't afford to make a deal right now - I'll put you in a '73 brand new Chev. at a price less than you ought to pay.

After research Businessmen back Prop. 1

The Downtown Long Beach Business Associates' board of directors has unanimously voted to support Proposition 1, Gov. Reagan's tax limitation initiative which goes to the voters Nov. 6, a spokesman said Friday.

Vito Romans, DLBA executive vice president, said the board, in making its endorsement of the controversial ballot measure, urged the organization's 1,300 business and professional members to follow its leadership.

According to Romans, the board's research on the matter "involved discussions with tax experts as well as with politicians representing both views in an attempt to arrive at the best forecast as to how Proposition 1, if passed, would affect the people of California."

He said the board determined that Proposition 1 will tie the total appropriations of the state to a percentage of personal income for each year. The measure also will prohibit the state from taking a greater percentage of income than it now takes unless voters approve another plan, Romans said.

THE DLBA BOARD also said the measure will reduce personal income taxes by 7½ per cent and eliminate low income taxpayers completely. Low income taxpayers were categorized as single persons making $4,000 or less per year and married couples earning $8,000 or less per year.

Romans said the board added that Proposition 1 will freeze property tax rates at the maximum now in effect, and allow raises only by voter approval, except in the case of rising property values.

In addition, Romans said, the board determined that Proposition 1 "states clearly (that) the Legislature shall not pass costs on to local government but shall, whenever mandating or increasing government programs, provide the necessary funding within the state tax appropriation limit."

He said the limitation initiative will also mandate refunds of taxes to taxpayers if the economy should rise allowing existing tax rates to produce a surplus of money.

THE BOARD also decided that the ballot measure will "provide an alternative formula for limiting appropriations so the state will not have less per capita than it now has." The board said the measure provides for adjustments of the limitation to meet cost of living and population changes, Romans added.

He said the the proposition will have "no effect on the current status of local property taxes for education," since the "maximum property taxes in Proposition 1 apply only to non-school property taxes."

The DLBA board, in recommending support of the initiative, concluded that "it will give the people greater ability to limit their taxes and will force the government to evaluate programs more fully each year to see that each program is producing results," Romans said.

They take 'panes' with Halloween

The Torrance Parks and Recreation Department believes that children should have the fun of painting up store windows at Halloween, providing store owners don't have the bother of cleaning up a mess. The solution was reached when the shopping center at Torrance and Anza boulevards volunteered its windows for the youngsters to decorate with poster paints. Milton Stout took advantage of the opportunity to paint a devil's head.

Coastal unit hearing on L.B. master plan

By KRIS DULANEY
Staff Writer

Coastal commissioners Monday will view Long Beach's updated master plan and convene a public hearing on their proposed interim and procedural guidelines — one of which was challenged by sanitation district officials during a Friday press conference.

Billed as a planning session, the commission's meeting will begin at 3 p.m. in the Long Beach Harbor Department's board room, 925 Harbor Plaza Drive.

FIRST ITEM on the seven-segment agenda is the public hearing on the commission's 19 proposed interim and procedural guidelines.

Those guidelines, drafted by the South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission's procedures committee, will, if adopted, ed, apply to all new developments within 1,000 yards of the mean high tide line in Los Angeles and Orange counties.

Friday, members of the Sanitation Districts of Orange County lashed out against one of the proposed guidelines — a set of stringent controls to be placed on wastes discharged into the Pacific Ocean.

During a noontime press conference, Orange County Sanitation District's General Manager Fred Harper said he was "not convinced there is scientific rationale in these interim guidelines."

HARPER and other sanitation officials, including a representative from Los Angeles County, told reporters the coastal commission guidelines, if passed, could cost taxpayers $100-$130 million for the construction of additional facilities that are not necessary.

The sanitation spokesmen said proposed waste treatment facilities for areas within the coastal permit zone would have to adhere to standards far higher than those already established by the Regional Water Quality Control Board and Environmental Protection Agency.

Since state and federal grants cannot, under law, be awarded to counties for construction of facilities to meet requirements that exceed Regional Water Quality Control Board standards, local taxpayers "would have to foot the bill," said Joe Harworth, Los Angeles County Sanitation District's public information officer.

ROBERT FINNELL, Orange County Sanitation District's joint chairman, said he would take the matter to court before "unnecessarily expending these kinds of money."

The Long Beach presentation, slated for 5 p.m., is scheduled to include information on the master plan's first overall updating since 1961.

The plan, which by state law must include elements of open space and concern for conservation, is due for completion in two years, according to planning commission officials.

2-year limit urged Veterans' test bonus in focus

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

The 10-point "bonus" given veterans who pass Long Beach civil service examinations would be available only for the first two years after an applicant gets out of the armed forces under a proposal to go before the City Council on Tuesday.

At present, a veteran gets the additional 10 points in any open competitive exam he passes "during the remainder of his working career," pointed out Roger Keast, chief examiner of the Civil Service Board.

THE BOARD is recommending that the City Council submit to Long Beach voters a charter amendment which would place the two-year limit on eligibility for the veterans' preference benefit.

The 10 points is added to the final passing grade, which must be 70 or better.

"A detrimental effect of the veterans' preference credit is illustrated by the fact that many classifications are almost completely blocked to nonveterans," Keast said.

He said it is "virtually impossible" to place high on a police officer eligibility list as a nonveteran and, as a result, "many well-qualified nonveterans are virtually excluded from employment as police officers in the City of Long Beach."

Keast said that Long Beach, like many other governmental, jurisdictions, put the veterans' preference into effect shortly after World War II in recognition of the need to rehabilitate returning servicemen.

"DUE TO their service in the military, they had been out of the job market for several years and were not able to compete adequately with men who had gained work experience at home during the war," he said.

Although such "preferential treatment" for returning veterans may be necessary to give them a "reasonably swift transition" back into civilian jobs, the Civil Service Board does not believe it should continue indefinitely, Keast said.

"Once the returning veteran has re-entered the civilian work force and has established his own work record, he no longer needs the additional bonus to be competitive in the job market," he explained.

The present system also has handicapped many people hired and trained by the city under federally funded manpower programs, but who stand "little chance" of getting a job with the city because they are nonveterans and the 10-point bonus for veterans outscores them on the eligibility list.

KEAST SAID the Civil Service Board considered various alternatives, including lowering the points allowed veterans and limiting the time in which a veteran could use the bonus. He said the board felt the voters would not approve a reduction in the 10-point veterans' preference, but that they would approve a limitation on the number of years of eligibility.

The change would have to be accomplished by a charter amendment, which requires a vote of Long Beach citizens.

Daylight Saving Time ends tonight

Tonight's the night you go to bed on Daylight Saving Time and arise—unless you have insomnia—to Standard Time.

At least that's the way things should work out if you remember to set the clocks back one hour on retiring.

Under the Uniform Time Act of 1967, Daylight Saving Time begins the last Sunday in April and ends the last Sunday in October, when Standard Time returns. Recently, there has been talk of extending Daylight Saving Time year-round to conserve energy by reducing the need for night-time lighting.

But that's still talk. Until talk is translated into reality, the only thing to do is set your clock back and enjoy an extra hour of sleep tonight.

Tiny tot swim pool classes successful at Lakewood Y

By HAL LOWE
Staff Writer

The age-old method of teaching a child to swim by taking him to the local pond and letting him fend for himself may have fallen by the wayside, but the Lakewood Family YMCA has given a modern twist to that bygone practice.

Instead of the rural swimmin' hole, instructor Carol Sanders uses the YMCA's heated outdoor pool. And the classes, nine 30-minute lessons per child, place emphasis on water safety and security — mommy is always there to help her child learn.

ACCORDING to Mrs. Sanders, the Y's unique program — entitled "Mommy and Me" — relies on the mother's presence to calm and coax a frightened or wary child.

She said four new sections of the class, which are limited to four students each, will begin Monday at the Y facility, 5425 Centralia Ave. Classes will be held from 9 to 9:30 a.m.; 10:30 to 11 a.m.; 11 to 11:30 a.m.; and 11:30 a.m. to noon.

Youngsters from six-months to 3 years of age may be enrolled in the program with their mothers for a fee of $18. There is no residence requirement for enrollment.

"We start out by dropping the child into the pool, but the mother is already there to help catch him if need be," said Mrs. Sanders.

She added that most youngsters — by the end of the program — are able to turn over in the water and make their way to the side of the pool without fear.

"The idea of the program is not to teach the child how to swim," Mrs. Sanders explained. "It is designed to make him pool-safe so that in case he accidentally falls into deep water, he will know exactly what to do."

The majority of children enrolled in the course have access to a swimming pool at home, she added.

"Recently, a mother who had taken the course with her child called to tell us that the money had been well spent," the instructor recalled. "The little fourteen-month-old girl had fallen into the family pool. There were no adults present, but the child made her way safely to the side of the pool by herself."

MRS. SANDERS said the "Mommy and Me" method has been "very successful" for several reasons. When she, as the instructor, inadvertently frightens a child by making him do something he doesn't want to do, the child's mother is quick to comfort. Mrs. Sanders explained.

She added that a large plastic dome, inflated over the pool, enables winter classes, and small children are "given the opportunity to take swimming lessons in time for the summer season."

CAROL SANDERS, aquatics director at the Lakewood Family YMCA, casts 2-year-old Jonathan Pivernetz, of Lakewood, upon the waters—and he plainly doesn't like it.

L.A. Philharmonic 'a great orchestra'

By DAVID LEVINSON
Staff Writer

The Los Angeles Philharmonic has sometimes seemed like a very good orchestra. It opened its season Thursday playing like a great orchestra.

It accomplished that, it is true, with a program of works by Gustav Mahler that did not for the most part make great intellectual demands on performers or listeners. But conductor Zubin Mehta demonstrated an extraordinary affinity for Mahler, and the orchestra demonstrated that its customary big sound can be achieved with extraordinary polish.

SOMETHING OF THIS may be due to the new concertmaster and associate conductor, Sidney Harth. Harth was concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony during Fritz Reiner's greatest days there, and the Chicago strings in those days finally came to match the rest of that amazing orchestra.

But beyond the physical sound, which was superb, there were new depths to Mehta's conducting. The gestures were as flamboyant as ever, but they were not there for their own sake; there was concern with the rich emotion of this most emotional of composers.

The concert opened with a warm performance of Bach's Air for the G String in memory of the Los Angeles Times' Norman Chandler, a long-time benefactor of the orchestra.

Mehta then turned to the first movement of Mahler's 10th Symphony, the only movement Mahler himself worked out in a virtually complete orchestration. This is difficult music with pitfalls for even a virtuoso orchestra. Mehta's musicians did well.

Soprano Jessye Norman, making her Music Center debut, sang five songs to poems by Rueckert. Her voice is sometimes more slight than one might wish for in these rich songs, but she sang expressively and with an enfolding warmth. The orchestra was the eloquent collaborator Mahler meant it to be.

The triumph of the evening was Mahler's First Symphony, in which Arnold Schoenberg said Mahler's "life-melody begins." Nature, fate, death—all are present in this work by the 24-year-old composer, as they were to be present in Mahler's music for the rest of his life.

Mehta has a young man's view of this young man's symphony. He made it as fresh as the springtime song with which it opens, as troubled as that song so suddenly becomes, as joyful as only a young man can be when he has not quite lost faith in his own immortality.

Mehta is not a wise old Viennese, as Bruno Walter was when most of us knew his performances of this symphony. But Mehta is a sensitive young musician, and if his Mahler First does not have Walter's Viennese patina it has a surging glory of its own. This is clearly one of those compositions that belongs to Mehta. Anyone who hears his performance of it will measure other conductors' performances against it.

SOUTHLAND MOVIE GUIDE

JEREMY — Robby Benson and Glynis O'Connor star as 16-year-olds having their first love affair. Arthur Barron's funny-sad and quite sentimental romance is set in present-day New York. (PG)

OKLAHOMA CRUDE — George C. Scott is terrific as a roughed-up roughneck helping-man-hating Faye Dunaway defend her rig from an unscrupulous oil giant in the boom town days of 1913. Stanley Kramer directs the well-made melodrama that also sees Jack Palance superb as the villain. (PG)

SEVEN WONDERS OF THE WEST — An outstanding nature film that covers the glories of the West thoroughly but rapidly. It is also a timely plea for conservation as well as a thoroughly refreshing diversion. Starring and narrated by Jack Smith. (G)

VISIONS OF EIGHT — An impressionist portrait of the Munich Olympics and five other directors less interested in who won or lost than in how it looked or felt. It is uneven, but engrossing. (G)

SCALAWAG — Kirk Douglas plays Long John Silver and Jesse James rolled into one! On top of Captain Peg's (Douglas) general hell-raising and the many action scenes, the film is for general audiences. In addition there are subtle put-ons running throughout. (G)

SAVE THE CHILDREN — The giants of the musical explosion come together. All of today's tops in the pop 'n rock field are together. (G)

WESTWORLD — Yul Brynner is a robot cowboy in this peek into the future that goes back into the past. (PG)

STONE KILLER — Fast, slick entertaining spinoff on "The French Connection," with Charles Bronson as a cop who does not care whom or what he busts up during a case. (R)

ROMEO AND JULIET — The return of the greatest love story of all time with Olivia Hussey, Leonard Whiting. It's beautiful and passionate. (PG)

ENTER THE DRAGON — Another Kung Fu epic starring the late Bruce Lee that is made completely true to the martial arts buff. However, the story is weak comicbook material. (R)

GARDENING

Camellias offer months of bloom

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Japanica Camellias are a genus of the Ternstroemia family of which the genus Thea (tea plant) also is a member. The camellias bloom for about three months. The blossoms don't all burst out at one time. Some varieties begin flowering in the fall, others not until winter, the rest bloom in the latter part of the winter season.

This means the gardener can have three carefully selected varieties of camellias. The three plants, when four or five years old and older provide flowers for about five months.

MOST varieties can be grown in containers. A few varieties, with arching branches, can be espaliered, tied to support and trained to grow flat on wall or wood framework. The arching branches can be trained to a lattice framework that is put in the container. These serve as special.

men plants, are used to screen out an area of the patio, and may be used against a blank wall.

Planning to sell your home? Here's some helpful improvement suggestions to make that front yard attractive so the prospective buyer will want to see the inside of the home.

First of all, imagine you are the prospective buyer looking at the house across the street. Notice the lawn and parking area. Do they need mowing and trimming. Is the lawn weedy and anemic looking. The lawns are the first noticed because they are the largest garden areas. If they aren't regularly mowed and periodically fed to look healthy and green, something should be done.

Possibly they need to be trimmed around the sprinkler heads, trees, walks. Perhaps the driveway needs to be edged and the lawn mowed.

Lawns should be watered at least four inches deep. They may be fertilized with turf fertilizer when leaves are dry. The fertilizer should be hoed off the leaves, and sprinkler system set to water the lawn well. A weedy lawn may be treated with the herbicide, the nurseryman recommends, or fed with fertilizer containing herbicide, as suggested by the nurseryman.

The second factor which is always an eye catcher is that of color provided by flowers in the front yard. Flowering mums and other blooming plants are available at nurseries. Set them out in front of green shrubs, to edge a walk or driveway or on either side of the entrance to the front door.

REMEMBER though such plants were planted in a lovingly prepared soil even though the wholesale grower, a businessman probably doesn't think of it that way. The plant holes should be dug larger than the root ball size. Dry holes are filled with water, when the water has drained away they are prepared with some organic material mixed with the soil. Plants then are set out.

CLUB NOTES

The Orange County Bromeliad Society will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Mira Linda School, 8699 Holder St., Buena Park. The program will be presented by Dr. Gene Jones of Fullerton State University.

Visitors are welcome. The National Fuchsia Society will hold its annual harvest festival at 8053 Lime Ave. Nov. 10 and 11. Ham and turkey dinners will be served both days and home baked goods and handmade items will be on sale.

35 firms legal air polluters

A Long Beach plant and four Harbor area firms were named Friday as among 35 companies in the county which Supervisor James Hayes said legally generate between 50 and 100 tons of air pollutants each year.

In a news release "in keeping with my policy of full public disclosure of air pollution information," Hayes listed:

Monsanto Chemical Co., 6251 Paramount Blvd., Long Beach; Shell Oil Co., Wilmington; Union Oil branches in Wilmington and Torrance, and the Reynolds Metal Co., Torrance.

HAYES said that those firms and all others on his list of 35 companies are in compliance with Air Pollution Control District regulations. He said they were selected solely on the basis of their position in the industrial and commercial community.

"Emissions attributed to the companies are not necessarily discharged every day," Hayes said, adding that "contaminants listed are discharged only on a limited number of days during the year."

Oil leader denounces fuel 'myths'

Associated Press

The United States is nowhere near running out of energy, Union Oil President Fred L. Hartley said Friday in Los Angeles. He termed such a fear one of a number of "fantasies" in the mind of the American public.

Hartley, in a Rotary Club speech, listed what he said were six widely held misconceptions concerning the current energy shortage.

He identified the others as the belief that the energy crisis is the result of either poor planning or an oil industry conspiracy, that energy production is "incompatible" with environmental protection and that government controls can solve energy problems.

HARTLEY added a sixth local "fantasy," that a rail rapid transit system will solve this city's traffic problems.

Hartley linked the current energy shortages to government controls and said that normal energy sources such as fuel oils had been "pushed out of the marketplace" by "absurdly low prices" for natural gas set by federal regulators. He said the United States has at least 200 years of energy supply still available.

The Union Oil chief contended that charges of oil industry conspiracies in connection with shortages are "ridiculous," saying the number of people involved in oil company activities would make any scheme impossible to contain.

He said poor industry planning is not responsible for fuel shortages and charged that government and "ill-informed public groups" have "fenced off" oil producing regions such as Alaska's North Slope and offshore California.

HARTLEY also attacked proposals for a rail rapid transit system in Los Angeles, saying that the Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) system ideally would move six per cent of the San Francisco's Bay area motorists at a cost of $1.6 billion. He termed the goal "a lot of money for a little bit of movement."

The executive offered three suggestions to meet the fuel shortage. He said several areas of untapped oil and gas reserves exist but that governmental approval is needed to tap them. He termed debate over the safety of nuclear power plants "unreasonable" and said both coal and oil shale should be developed as alternative energy sources.

Garden jobs

Plant primroses of all kinds as well as cinerarias, English daisies and forget-me-nots in shady garden area. Aphids are more likely to attack cinerarias than they do most other shade plants. Spray as soon as the first few are found on underside of the leafage.

Visit your local nursery and check up on camellias that are beginning to bloom. Select plants to grow in the patio area where they'll get at least several hours of sun. Blossoms of the Japonica camellias last longer than some other species also as outflowers. Continue watering them as they need it.

Scatter snail-slug bait periodically. Do it after the garden has been watered. Be sure to scatter the bait in any nearby groundcover where snails and slugs thrive and breed.

Continue sharp hose-spraying of shrubs to discourage pests from setting up breeding areas.

In establishing lighthouses, one main idea is to have them all different. Otherwise, a man making a landfall in daylight wouldn't know whether he was bound for Portland, Maine or Timbuktoo. So some are black, some white, some red, and some striped. Still others have a tower alongside, or pyramid, if you prefer, usually painted white. These pyramids have varying uses. Some of them are bell-towers supporting the bell which sounds in thick weather.
